Government Rejects Kidd Report Proposals

Nothing Drastic To Result, Reply Makes Definite

Sharp Cleavage, However, Is Revealed Between Opinions of Politicians and Business Community in Attitude Towards Government and Public Administration

LIQUOR BOARD TO STAY HERE

Nothing drastic in B.C. administration of affairs under the British Columbia government is to happen as a result of the Kidd report. This was made clear to-day by the government when it issued its reply to the report. The appendix deals with the report paragraph by paragraph, from the government's point of view "to correct some inaccuracies and to provide the public with full facts which should be in their possession."

The combination of the report and the government's reply brings into focus the sharpness of the cleavage between the political and the business community in their attitude towards government and the manner of its administration.

DIEPPE ON FINANCIAL STANDING
To the Kidd committee's conclusion that the B.C. government's annual expenditures must be cut by $6,000,000, the government comes back with the reply all the proposed specific cuts are either impossible or ineffectual, and that the business of the government are not in such bad shape as the business men reported them to be in. Every proposal of any importance by the committee for cutting down is ruled out by the government in its reply.

As a result:
1. Free public school education will not be restricted.
2. The Pacific Great Eastern Railway will not be abandoned.
3. Liquor Control Board head offices will not be moved from the capital to New Westminster or other mainland point.

4. The University of British Columbia will not be abandoned.
5. The Provincial Police will not be merged with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.
6. B.C. income tax audit will not be handed over to the Dominion.
7. Minimum wage laws will not be scrapped.

8. There will be no rush to cut teachers' salaries, which will be left under the bodies now negotiating.

BRITISH CABINET POSITION IS DEBATED

OLD AGE PENSION SLASH FOUGHT

James Gartley, an old-age pensioner, recently had his monthly pension slashed. To-day Robert D. Harvey as his counsel went into the Supreme Court before Mr. Justice Murphy and lodged protest against such action. As a result of the protest, the judge issued an order for Mr. H. Winn, Parker Williams and Hugh B. Gilmour of the Workmen's Compensation Board, listed as the pension board responsible for the pension cut, to appear before him in court here on September 29 to explain their action and to show cause why a writ of mandamus should not be issued against them commanding them to reinstate the pension of Mr. Gartley on the full scale which was paid to him up to June 11 last.

Mr. Harvey claimed that Mr. Gartley had been receiving his old-age pension at the rate for the last five years and there had been no change in his financial or other condition to serve as a reason for slashing his pension.

TO DIRECT MILITARY TRAINING

Ottawa, Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press) Col. W. G. Beaman, D.S.O., has been appointed to succeed Col. H. H. Macneil, C.M.G., D.S.O., as director of military training and organization, according to an announcement from the department of National Defence. Col. Beaman will proceed to Calgary to assume the appointment of officer commanding Military District 13.

DOLLAR FIRM ON EXCHANGE

New York, Sept. 23.—The Canadian dollar was steady on the local foreign exchange market to-day, selling for 90 1/2 cents, unchanged from yesterday's closing quotation, throughout the session. The pound sterling closed 1/4 cent higher at 3.16 1/2 for cables after opening slightly weaker.

SCORE OF MEN FREED BY JUDGE

At Prince George Chief Justice Morrison Withdraws Unlawful Assembly Case

Men in Custody Since August 15; Incident Occurred at Government Agent's Office

Canadian Press
Prince George, B.C., Sept. 23.—Chief Justice Aulay Morrison has withdrawn from the jury the cases in which twenty-six men who had been receiving unemployment relief were charged with unlawful assembly. The chief justice held the evidence for the prosecution had failed to disclose the elements which to his mind constituted an unlawful assembly and that no one appeared to have been intimidated.

The men had been in custody since August 15, awaiting trial. Their arrests followed a disturbance in the office of the provincial government agent here. They chose a jury rather than a summary trial, apparently preferring to remain in jail rather than go to a "retter camp" without money allowances.

Big U.S. Railway Consolidation Plan
Associated Press
New York, Sept. 23.—Executives of the four eastern trunk line railroads agreed to-day to merge with the New York Central and the Pennsylvania Railroad, forming a new system of four railroads.

Mr. King was shown a dispatch from Saskatoon in which J. G. Dieffenbacher, K.C., was quoted as saying he had been informed by a member of the Prince Albert Liberal executive that the Liberal leader "would shake the dust of western Canada from his feet" and run in an eastern constituency in the next general election.

Mr. King's reply, in the form of a prepared statement, follows:
"I have had no intimation from any member of the Liberal executive in Prince Albert, or from any other source, that there was any intention to select someone other than myself as candidate to contest the constituency of Prince Albert at the next general election."

"I felt much honored when, in 1926, I was nominated as candidate by the Liberals of Prince Albert, and subsequently elected as representative of the constituency."

London, Sept. 23.—A strong plea directed at Liberal Ministers of the National Government not to cause a cabinet split over the difference of views concerning the agreements made at Ottawa was made by Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Dominion Secretary, in an address at a luncheon to-day in honor of Hon. W. Downie Stewart, New Zealand Finance Minister.

Mr. Thomas's appeal came five days before an important meeting of the cabinet, at which it was expected legislation, necessitated by the Ottawa Imperial Conference agreements, would be discussed, and the position of Free Trade Liberal ministers concerning the further preferences for Dominion goods clarified.

"I do not intend to apologize for the Ottawa agreements," said Mr. Thomas. "I gave as was the position twelve months ago, it is no less grave today. If it was necessary to subordinate personal interests then, it is no less necessary now, and above all there is less justification for a split at the present time which would involve empire policy."

"I stand behind a premier battling with difficulties, with a life's record of public service, and saying all the time 'my country first.' If the Dominions crashed they would be unable to take the surplus population of this country. We must not refuse their appeal at Ottawa. It was not a selfish appeal, and we believe by helping New Zealand we helped ourselves."

NEW ZEALAND'S POSITION
An optimistic view of the future was given by Mr. Stewart, who referred to the Ottawa conference.

ROOSEVELT CAMPAIGNS IN HOOVER'S HOME STATE

Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, left, was in San Francisco to-day on his "swing through the west." The Democratic candidate for the presidency of the United States addressed a throng of 10,000 in Sacramento yesterday afternoon. The picture above was taken as Mr. Roosevelt stood on the rear platform of his special train.

MOVE TO END COTTON STRIKE

Two Sides in Lancashire Agree on Wages; Debate Reinstatement of Men

Manchester, Eng., Sept. 23.—Mill owners and union representatives trying to end the cotton strike in the Lancashire district reached an agreement to-day on wages and began considering reinstatement of men on strike. The wage agreement is a compromise which will mean a reduction of about 13 per cent in pay for the men. The problem of reinstatement also is delicate, although it concerns principally not more than 2,000 of the men on strike. On the reinstatement of that comparatively small number two conferences already have split.

Mr. King's reply, in the form of a prepared statement, follows:
"I have had no intimation from any member of the Liberal executive in Prince Albert, or from any other source, that there was any intention to select someone other than myself as candidate to contest the constituency of Prince Albert at the next general election."

NOTICE MAKES WEDDING LEGAL

Registrar Uses Authority in Case of Ceremony Performed By Rev. Dr. W. J. Sippell

Former Victoria Clergyman Was Not Authorized Under Marriage Act Changes

Authority vested in him under the Marriage Act has been exercised by Dr. H. E. Young, registrar of births, marriages and deaths, to set aside all doubts as to the legality of a wedding recently performed in Victoria by Rev. W. J. Sippell, B.A., D.D.

The case is the first one in British Columbia since amendments were made to the Marriage Act at the 1921 session of the B.C. Legislature which require registration of all ministers authorized to perform marriage ceremonies in British Columbia. Soon after the passing of the amendments most of the ministers resident in British Columbia were registered as authorized to perform marriage ceremonies. Exceptions were made in the case of some ministers who belonged to religious organizations which the act does not recognize of sufficient standing for their leaders to be granted registration.

Seven ministers who have left the province have been struck off the list and new arrivals have been added. Dr. Sippell, who was formerly minister of Metropolitan United Church, has since moved to Moscow, Idaho, on a visit to his wife's family. On a notice in the B.C. Gazette dated September 20 states Dr. Sippell was not authorized under the provision of the Marriage Act to perform the ceremony at which he officiated in August, 1932, but by virtue of the amendments in him Dr. Young waives the requirements of the act as to the registration of the minister and declares the marriage legal from the date of solemnization.

WOMAN BEATEN BY ROBBERS

Elderly Citizen of Vancouver Roughly Treated Before Two Thugs Flee

Vancouver, Sept. 23.—Attacked by two thugs who demanded to know the hiding place of money which they insisted she had concealed in her home, Mrs. D. Smith, an elderly woman living alone on Quebec Street, was severely beaten yesterday evening.

Mrs. Smith went out on to the veranda of her home and, to her surprise, found two men standing there. They seized her and demanded to know where her money was hidden. The woman replied she had no money. The two thugs, however, refused to believe her and started to beat her in an effort to force her to give them the information they desired. Finally, however, convinced the woman had told the truth, they fled.

At 8:30 yesterday evening a citizen noticed two men loitering near the Vancouver Drug Company's store at Granville and Hastings Streets. Under the coat of one of the pair he noticed a revolver. Seeing the man watching them the two went into a nearby beer parlor, but had left when police, summoned by the citizen, arrived.

Mr. A. Rae, Granville Street, reported a rug worth $125 from his store. Morris Smith, Robson Street, reported theft of $10 and his watch.

John James, East Cordova Street, told police he had been robbed of $42. Tools were taken from the Olympia Service Station on East Hastings Street. Clothing and personal effects were taken from homes of H. M. Parker, West Broadway, and Miss I. Grant, Jersey Street.

Silverware was taken from the home of A. C. Suckling, King Edward Street.

PUBLICITY MUST BE MAINTAINED

Critical Time For Canada to Hold Lucrative Travel Business, Experts Say

Special Advertising Essential If United States Goes "Wet"

Although tourist travel to Canada dropped by as much as 30 per cent in some provinces, advertising should be maintained so that the Dominion will not suffer a permanent loss of this lucrative business, in the opinion of tourist experts, who have reviewed the travel year in letters to George L. Warren as president of the Canadian Association of Tourist and Publicity Bureaus.

The decreases reported in tourist business indicate British Columbia had a good year by comparison and has maintained its volume of business to a far greater extent than some provinces. In Halifax it is estimated tourist trade was down between 10 and 15 per cent. Ontario, which suffered a drop of 15 per cent last year, suffered a further drop of 17 per cent this year. Over Peace River Bridge and Ambassador Bridge, leading into Toronto, 308,942 less tourists traveled in August than in the previous year.

Insult Concerns Declared Bankrupt

Chicago, Sept. 23.—The Corporation Securities Company and Insult Utility Investments Inc., the two Insult investment trusts in which the public had $300,000,000 invested, were adjudged bankrupt to-day by Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley.

The decrees, which Judge Lindley had indicated yesterday evening he would sign, were filed with the clerk of the United States district court during Judge Lindley's absence in Danville, where he has his home.

OUTSTANDING FEATURES FOR TIMES READERS

Frank Buck, the daring jungle explorer and captor of wild animals for the world's zoos, who made thousands in Victoria gape at his moving picture "Bring 'Em Back Alive," has written the actual story of his jungles. By special arrangement with Mr. Buck's agents, The Victoria Daily Times has arranged to publish for its readers the complete book of "Wild Cargo," illustrated by the author's own pictures, taken in the jungles, of the ferocious and other animals. Readers of The Times will get the complete book in installments as features of the Saturday magazine section. The first installment will be published to-morrow. Another outstanding exclusive feature to be published by The Times to-morrow will be the story of "Platinum Blond" Jean Harlow's first love affair, and how romance came to her while at a high-priced, exclusive and strict girls' boarding school, sweeping her up to the altar in her first marriage before she was out of her teens.

Round-Table Conference Between Dominion and Provincial Officials on Equalization of Railway Traffic and Truck and Motorbus Traffic Expected to Be Held Soon

Rules at Present Made By Provinces

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Sept. 23.—The provinces probably will be invited to join in a round-table discussion with the Dominion in the matter of motorbus and truck competition with the railways, according to information obtained from official circles here. This is in line with the suggestions of the Royal Commission on Transportation.

At present the regulating of the motor buses and trucks is in the exclusive jurisdiction of the provinces. It has been often contended the railways should have gone to the provinces long ago and urged more strict regulation. Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways, expressed the opinion some time ago such a procedure should have been taken.

NEW BOARD
There is much conjecture here as to who are likely to be chosen as chairman and members of the board of trustees of the Canadian National Railways if the recommendation of the Transportation Commission is acted on in this regard.

With the exception of the assurance that S. J. Hangerford, now acting president of the C.N.R., will be confirmed as the operating head of the system, it is stated the government has as yet given no consideration to any appointments which the implementation of the report would entail.

FARM STRIKE SPREADS IN U.S.

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 23.—Farmers at points as widely scattered as Atlanta, Ga., and North Dakota, moved to-day to join the selling strike under way in Iowa for more than a month.

Milk producers in New York and parts of New Jersey, Vermont and Pennsylvania were reported to be considering holding their products from the metropolitan market, and at Atlanta the Georgia Milk Producers' Federation ordered its members in twenty counties to stop shipments to distributors in Atlanta.

In Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Oklahoma, Nebraska and Iowa, thousands of farmers aided the non-selling movement with action which ranged from peaceful talks with neighbors to violence in stopping trucks on highways and removing their cargoes of farm products.

Those Attending Provincial University Say Increase in Charges Is Attempt to Make Up For Shortages in Trust Funds

Winnipeg, Sept. 23.—John A. Machray, K.C., was in the Stony Mountain Penitentiary to-day but the confused jangle he left behind in the finances of the University of Manitoba and the Anglican Church on the prairies was still far from straightened out.

To-day, while the university was confronted with a threatened mass refusal of students to pay fees, church authorities were wrestling with the problem of replacing their lost endowment funds.

According to J. S. Anderson, president of the University of Manitoba Students' Union, students were asked to make every effort to withhold payment of fees since they are of the opinion the heavy increases in fees for the 1932-33 term represent some attempt to make good a part of the defalcations for which Machray was sentenced yesterday to seven years in the penitentiary.

Explaining the work of a special student investigating committee, Anderson said the committee had reported sharp disagreement between the board of governors of the university and the Manitoba government in the explanation offered for the increase in fees.

Declaring Hon. R. A. Hoey, Minister of Education had stated in an interview that "the government has already assured the board of governors the full grant of $400,000 voted by the Legislature at the last session will be paid this year," the statement added Mr. Hoey had evinced surprise that so large an increase in fees had been decided on by the board, especially since at a meeting, August 22, between the board, the Premier and Mr. Hoey, it had been agreed no further reduction in the university grant would be made this year.

"The investigating committee," the report added, "has further discovered that with the payment of the grant in full, the increase in fees and the general curtailment of expenses and salary reductions, a surplus of over $50,000 would accrue to the university treasury on the basis of the average enrolment. It has been rumored the surplus was to be returned to the government for the replacement of trust funds for which the government has acknowledged responsibility."

Coalition Idea Offered To Premier Year Ago

Advanced By Reginald Hayward as in Best Interests of Province

Member Declares Ten Could Be Lopped Off House to Advantage

Not to Premier Tolmie nor to any member of his cabinet, can justly be attributed the idea of forming a union government in British Columbia, it was learned yesterday from Reginald Hayward, M.P.P., who returned to Victoria yesterday afternoon after touring Great Britain and the Irish Free States for three and a half months.

"I am on record as favoring union government," said Mr. Hayward in an interview. "I realized a year ago that it would be in the best interests of the province, and at that time wrote to the Premier suggesting that it could not be interpreted as a sign of weakness if an effort were made to bring all parties together to weather this economic crisis."

The expressed desire of Premier Tolmie to bring the parties together has the wholehearted support of Mr. Hayward.

DISAPPOINTED

"I am disappointed in those who have not seen eye to eye with me in my efforts in this direction," he continued.

"It is a pity they could not see fit at this time, in the best interests of the province, to accept the proposal. In my opinion, an atmosphere of confidence."

OUT FOR REDUCTION

While Mr. Hayward is definitely opposed to the recommendations of the Kidd commission with particular reference to the scrapping of P.O.E. Railway, a point on which he quickly made himself clear when he learned the tenor of the report.

He said he stood like "a lighthouse on a lonely hill" on this question when the redistribution bill was before the last session of the House.

"We could lop ten off the present membership to advantage," Mr. Hayward declared with emphasis.

RENO MAY LOSE ITS SPEAKASIES

Federal Drive to Dry Up Nevada City Comes After Dull Summer

Reno, Nev., Sept. 23.—Rumors of an impending drive to dry up Reno were heard here to-day and proprietors of the town's many resorts and bootlegging establishments were apprehensive lest they be true.

The reports gained strength when it was learned abatement proceedings against twenty-seven places, including the only remaining night club, were pending in the federal district court at Carson City, waiting to be set for trial in accordance with a list to be furnished by the United States attorney.

This list, it was said, had been prepared and was now awaiting final approval before being submitted to the clerk of the court.

Some of the complaints date back as far as December 16, 1930, while others resulted from more recent raids.

Any action by the government to close the various resorts at this time would come at the end of one of the dull summer months Reno has ever experienced. Business has been so poor here for several months that proprietors have closed their doors voluntarily, while others have had to struggle to keep open.

THIRD NIBBLE FOR THE P.G.E.

Reports that a survey of the Lillooet-Lytton road had been made this summer by parties interested in the P.G.E. deal were not confirmed at the Legislative Building to-day. Advice from the interior stated that a branch would be built from the Lillooet region to the Pacific coast, and that the parties negotiating for the line succeeded in putting over the deal.

Premier Tolmie denied another purchase offer for the road had been received this morning from British interests. This makes at least three offers now in the government's hands.

He said he was not sure of the exact date of his arrival from the United Kingdom yesterday. Further information on the other two offers, however, was forthcoming pending the outcome of the negotiations being carried on at the buildings now.

The Montreal International Tourist Bureau statistics the decrease in Quebec at 33 1/3 per cent.

"To maintain the tourist trade," says a representative of the bureau, "we must preserve the goodwill which radiates the length and breadth of the United States."

Overcharges and unwarranted charges must be eliminated, he says, pointing out that several complaints have been made of high charges for accommodation which is inferior to that offered in the country from which the tourists come.

He says, inferior accommodation is offered at prices beyond the reach of the rank and file.

"Perhaps this year more than any other matter of critical importance," the writer continues, "we must make efforts to attract tourists who will return to be our best ambassadors and sales agents. It is the time because if the United States should adopt a policy whereby the sale of beer and light wines would not be prohibited, then Canada's freedom will not be unique. This attraction, for many tourists, will have ceased. To meet this reasonable prices and good values must prevail."

Lieutenant-Colonel C. F. C. Pousette, executive secretary of the Tourist and Convention Bureau of Winnipeg, writes: "We are of the opinion that more and more advertising abroad is something which will develop tourist business. This, as you know, requires money and unless federal, provincial and municipal governments and business men are prepared to support our bureau in a more substantial manner it is difficult to see how we can extend and secure a greater volume of this lucrative business."

C. C. Bonta, of the Canada Steamship Lines, Ltd., Montreal, expressed the view that the company's advertising has established many friends, and in normal times traffic will show a great increase.

Winnipeg, Sept. 23.—Bishop A. H. Sovereign of the Tuckson to-day accepted nomination as Bishop of Athabasca according to an announcement made at a combined meeting of archdiocesan and lay delegates to the Anglican House of Representatives in session here to-day.

The Tuckson and Mackenzie River dioceses will be jointly administered by Bishop Geddes of Mackenzie River.

The changes were recommended when the bishopric of Athabasca became vacant, it says, "but is nevertheless a political appointment and is asked to arbitrate between private and government concern."

FOUR ESCAPE FROM PRISON

Seattle Combed For Men Who Broke Out of Jail at Everett This Morning

Everett, Wash., Sept. 23.—Police were combing this district and Seattle to-day for four prisoners who escaped from the county jail here after overpowering two guards, and stealing pistols and an automobile. The men are Julian Ferguson, twenty-eight; Ted Olson, twenty-two; Gerald Webster, twenty-two, and Chester Thune, thirty.

Other prisoners stood by and refused to take part in the break.

GUARD SURPRISED

The prisoners waited until breakfast was served this morning, then, while Jailer Jim Gully was removing the dishes from the tank, suddenly pounced on him, beat him and took his keys.

Running into the jail office, they seized Howard Cross, another jailer, took two pistols from him and rushed out of the building into an alley. There they forced Sam Wilder, mail carrier of Marysville, to give them his auto. They drove toward Seattle. Ferguson and Olson were held as suspects and the other two were released here from Chicago.

MAN SENT TO JAIL FOUR YEARS

S. A. Rafuse Sentenced at Windsor, N.S.; Evidence on Bank Hold-up

Canadian Press
Windsor, N.S., Sept. 23.—Sydney A. Rafuse, convicted Wednesday on two charges of conspiring and attempting to rob the Royal Bank branch at Shubenacadie August 23, to-day was sentenced by Mr. Justice Henry Graham to four years in the Dorchester Penitentiary on the first count, and two years on the second charge, the sentences to run concurrently.

Rafuse, former manager of the Royal Bank branch at Louisburg, was acquitted on a third charge of attempting to wound a police officer. His brother-in-law, Gerald Freckleton, was also sentenced to four years in the Dorchester Penitentiary on the first count, and two years on the second charge, the sentences to run concurrently.

Evidence at the trial revealed Rafuse had given the police advance information concerning the projected robbery, enabling them to lie in ambush in the bank.

Rafuse, talking of insurance with the bank manager when Freckleton and Boutilier entered, was the "blind." The evidence also revealed that in order to see the affair through, the police had provided Boutilier with a car, a gun and a small sum of money.

ferred to the improvement in the trade position. He believed and hoped the estimated deficit of $2,000,000 in the national finances would be considerably less, and said that if the present trend of economic conditions continued New Zealand would weather the storm.

NCH INTEREST

London, Sept. 23.—Excitement ran high in political circles to-day because of the belief Liberal ministers will resign when the cabinet meets September 24 to consider tariff agreements of the Ottawa Imperial Conference.

Appeals will be more to the proposals of free trade to remain in the government despite their antagonism toward the Ottawa measures.

The story centres around Sir Herbert Samuel, Home Secretary. (Sir Herbert informed the executive of the Liberal Party this week that Liberal ministers had agreed on the action they would take. He did not say what that action would be.)

If Sir Herbert leads the Liberals out of the National Government, an awkward situation will face Premier MacDonald. It is the general political opinion, however, that if Sir Herbert resigns over fiscal policies he will not become actively opposed to the government, but will continue to support general policies of the National regime.

Liberal free traders in the cabinet are Sir Herbert Samuel and Sir Archibald Sinclair, Secretary for Scotland. Two other Liberal members of the cabinet, Rt. Hon. Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade, and Sir John Simon, Foreign Secretary, are more or less reconciled to tariff.

SEARCH FOR WOMAN FAILS

Seattle Officials Unable to Find Mrs. Sarah Smith Scollard

Seattle, Sept. 23.—Ending a year's futile search for Mrs. Sarah Smith Scollard, formerly of Bellingham, on a charge of making a false income tax return, an indictment warrant was filed to-day with "Not found" written across its face.

The search was conducted by United States marshal deputies and Federal Bureau of Internal Revenue and Department of Justice agents. Friends told the operatives they had not heard from Mrs. Scollard for more than a year and feared she might be dead.

Mrs. Scollard was a friend of Reese B. Brown, wealthy eastern Washington real estate man, indicted last August on a charge of aiding her to make the false return. The government charged she had a 1929 income of $261,524 on which a $30,540 tax was due, but that she claimed a $182,000 debt exemption and showed an income of $179,087.

EARLY TRIAL

The charges against Brown, District Attorney Anthony Savage said, would be tried soon.

In a sensational race with her husband from South America to Seattle in 1927, Mrs. Scollard received much publicity. She contended she was trying to save her fortune, which she said he was taking from her. They were divorced in 1928. John P. Dore, now Mayor of Seattle, was Scollard's attorney.

She was last heard of about a year ago in Vancouver, B.C., Bellingham and Denver.

Manitoba Inquiry Board Being Chosen

Winnipeg, Sept. 23.—Premier Bracken of Manitoba to-day declined to comment on a report from Regina that Mr. Justice W. F. A. Turgeon, of the Saskatchewan Court of Appeal, would head the coming inquiry into shortages in the University of Manitoba funds.

Mr. Bracken expects to be able to announce the personnel of the board of inquiry in the near future and until then prefers not to discuss possible individual appointments.

The name of Mr. Justice Turgeon has been mentioned here several times in connection with the inquiry.

Provinces to Suggest Regulations

London, Sept. 23.—Proposals of the Royal Transportation Commission situation "appear to offer a well-balanced solution for the immediate problem," declares The London Morning Post, commenting editorially on the report just issued.

The Post contends, however, the root of Canada's railway troubles is that she has too many railways for the present population, and it believes it is difficult to see when business is going to come, unless the immigration laws of the country are extended.

The London Times congratulated Premier Bennett on his "courageous decision to remove the issue between the two railways as far as possible from the political arena by placing it in the hands of an authoritative and impartial commission."

"BOOSTED UP"

The London Financial News says the findings of the Duff Commission are regarded in Britain as conferring no very considerable benefits on the Canadian Pacific Railway.

It says, "The Canadian National thus provides a constructive policy for the railways as a whole."

The London Financial News criticizes the employment of the chief commissioner of the Railway Commission as arbitrator between companies. "He is supposed to have a semi-judicial position," it says, "but is nevertheless a political appointee and is asked to arbitrate between private and government concern."

freedom to make the best possible arrangements in their behalf with Dr. Ambedkar, leader of the untouchables, who is holding out for certain alternative safeguards for his followers.

Mr. Gandhi issued an appeal to the people of India to refrain from fasting and insisting that instead of that they set about doing all in their power to remove the stigma of untouchability.

The compromise plan of Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru, famous before for his arbitrations of Indian troubles with the government, was the one which it was understood, was partially accepted. It called for joint declarations for the higher caste Hindus and the untouchables, with safeguards of the latter.

MANCHURIA TRADE TREND STUDIED

May Import More Wheat; Outlook For Other Articles Uncertain

Canadian Press
Tokyo—By mail—Except for prospects of a wheat trade revival, the general situation throughout Manchuria remains unsatisfactory, with numerous factors exercising an adverse influence on import trade. Principal among these are exchange, renewed outbreaks of banditry, floods and poor demand for export commodities. It is thought in some quarters that crop damage in north Manchuria may lead to a revival in importation of wheat and flour. This possibility provides a bright spot in the outlook for the early future, and while no indications as to actual requirements can be obtained for some time, it seems justifiable to assume improvement in the flour trade into south and central Manchuria may be noticed during the coming winter and that wheat cargoes may move into Vladivostok for delivery to mills situated along the railway between that port and Harbin.

FROM JAPAN
Continued weakness in the yen has for the moment practically stopped importation into south Manchuria except of Japanese products. Many bankers, however, believe the position of business and industry in Japan is too good to warrant the present low value of the yen. It can at any rate be taken as the consensus of opinion that the future is fully discounted at present prices unless further political troubles should intervene. The bandit situation in Manchuria is probably more disturbing than ever before. Raids on railway property and towns lying along the railway lines are nightly occurrences. The most serious floods of modern times inundated large areas of the Sungari River valley, including the city of Harbin, and numerous stretches of the Chinese Eastern Railway.

CHEMAINUS NOTES

Weicker, Mrs. C. Rey, Paul and Alfred Colliard, all of Duncan, and Miss Olive Anderson of Courtenay. Mrs. Martinik was presented with a bouquet and the evening was spent at bridge.

The First Cheminus Girl Guide Association held their first meeting of the season at the home of Mrs. Russell Robinson, the president. Those present were Miss E. Greig, Miss K. Porter, Miss L. Vye, Miss Enid Fraser, Mrs. Fraser, Mrs. Walter Porter, Mrs. Robert English, Mrs. Halhed, Mrs. James Cook and Mrs. R. Finlayson. The Guide captain said the Guides wanted to give the prize money they won in the Dominion Day, parade to the Queen Alexandra Solarium. This was given unanimous approval. Several members offered to give fruit to the Solarium. The Brown Owl asked that Nanaimo Brownies might be entertained some Saturday, in return for past favors. This met with approval and the secretary will write to the Brownies secretary, Nanaimo, asking if October 8 will be suitable. An entertainment to be given in November was discussed and arrangements were left in the hands of the Guide and Brownie leaders. With Mrs. Walter Porter and Miss Ethel Greig as committee. Mrs. John Underwood gave a piece of fancy work to be raffled.

TRUSTEES TO MEET IN COURTENAY AUDIENCES TO HEAR MACKENZIE

Kelowna, B.C., Sept. 22—The B.C. School Trustees' Association, at its annual convention here yesterday, selected Courtenay for its 1933 convention.

A resolution from Burnaby seeking to have school board chairmen act as ex-officio members of juvenile courts was defeated. Establishment of a common system of education in all the provinces, including standardized textbooks, advocated by Prince Rupert, was supported by the convention.

Mid-land trustees submitted a resolution urging the privilege of passing students of all schools by recommendation, the same as now is permitted for high schools.

The recommendation system was criticized by several delegates and an amendment was offered urging that high school students must write on one or more subjects. Both amendment and resolution were defeated.

The trustees adopted a resolution submitted by the Union Bay and Courtenay school boards seeking an investigation of the deal between the government and the E. and N. Railway. A big land grant was made as a subsidy to the railway and the resolution urged the government ascertain if the land could not be brought under taxation. It was said that if these lands were taxed there would be no necessity for school grants in the district.

AUSTRALIAN ECONOMIES

Canberra, Australia, Sept. 23 (Canadian Press)—Providing for a reduction of $220,000 in public service salaries and parliamentary allowances, the financial emergency bill was given second reading by the House of Representatives yesterday, the vote being 41 to 24. Under the bill cuts are also made in invalid and old age pensions and restrictions placed on the maternity bonus and the wine export bounty. The gold bonus is also suspended as from September 30.

SEES NEW ERA FOR GREAT LAKES PORTS

Hamilton, Ont., Sept. 23—George B. Sowers, Cleveland engineer, told the Great Lakes Harbors Association the recent signing of the St. Lawrence waterways treaty by Canada and the United States signalled the beginning of a new era in development of Great Lakes ports.

Mr. Sowers, who is a former commissioner and chief engineer of the city of Cleveland, discussed development of harbors by local and other governing bodies. "Every well-developed port is a national asset," he said. "Every possible opportunity for adequate development of all ports should be fostered by enabling acts specially suited for use by independent, aggressive and efficient authorities backed by public opinion."

FIGHT WHICH TOWN'S MAYOR ENDED

After twenty-five days, during which newspapers in Canada and the United States devoted much space to it, the spider-snake battle in St. Charles, Illinois, came to an end when the mayor cut the web and allowed the reptile to escape. Up to that time all indications were the spider would win the strange fight. The snake, of the ordinary garter or garden species, seeking a choice morsel, had invaded the spider's web in a narrow opening of the town's water pumping station. The web shared him. He tore away from all but one cord. Whenever the snake appeared to be winning his struggle, the spider hurried and spun additional strands to the cord. The picture shown the spider on the floor at the lower left. The photo was slightly retouched to bring out the web lines.

A JOURNALIST PASSES ON

For a quarter of a century Robert Houston was an able and highly-esteemed member of the editorial staff of The Colonist. He has now gone to his last rest; but he leaves behind him many who valued his friendship and many who owe their success in the journalistic world to his wise counsel and his mass of information on myriad subjects which was always an open book to all. We of The Times knew Robert Houston—who for a time was editor of this newspaper—and we felt that we, just as our fellow journalists on The Colonist did, could call him "Old Robert," knowing he understood the affection all felt for him.

But Mr. Houston merely finished his journalistic work in Victoria. At one time, long before many with whom he became associated in after years were born, he was telegraph editor of The Toronto Globe, while numerous other newspapers in Canada have had the benefit of his valuable services. He has passed on and we of the craft honor his memory and mourn the loss of a staunch friend—one of Nature's gentlemen.

NEWS WHICH EXPLODES A BUTTER ELECTION ARGUMENT

From Montreal early this week came the news that it will be necessary for Canada to import at least 5,000,000 pounds of butter this season if there is to be enough to go round. There is nothing very surprising in this announcement. Butter production has been falling off. In August, for instance, Manitoba's output declined nineteen per cent, Saskatchewan twenty-four per cent, and Alberta by a little more than nineteen per cent. The reason for this falling off is explained by the fact that in good crop years the farmers find it much less arduous to attend to their grain crops than to expand their dairying activities. Two bad crop years in succession, 1930 and 1931, were marked by such an increase in the production of butter that Canada, for the first time since 1925, had sufficient to meet her own requirements and enough left over for export.

The butter controversy took a prominent position on the political stage in 1930. But it will be remembered that this newspaper several times remarked that Canada was obliged to import butter in 1929 and in 1930 because she was not producing sufficient for her own use. There had been several good crop years and production had declined. It also should be remembered that in 1930 the Canadian dairyman, at a time when between $10,000,000 and $13,000,000 worth of butter was coming in from the Antipodean Dominions, was getting between thirty-five and thirty-eight cents a pound for his product. But the people were told that this importation was ruining the dairying industry of Canada and that unless the dairyman could get between fifty and sixty cents a pound for his butter, an important rural activity would be completely destroyed.

For many months now not a pound of butter has been coming in from our principal source of supply in the years when we did not produce enough to go round; yet the dairyman has not been getting more than eighteen or nineteen cents a pound. The explanation is that as soon as Canada once again reached an export basis as far as butter was concerned, the eight-cent tariff which the Bennett government imposed was of no use because our dairyman had to compete in the world market and take the world price. All of this was good for the consumer of Canada. But the news from Montreal, taken in conjunction with the crop argument, furnishes ample proof of the shallowness of the high tariff duties—and how higher customs duties would benefit the country—we heard during the federal election campaign of 1930.

NEW YORK'S NEW MAYOR WENT INTO ACTION PROMPTLY

It is beginning to look very much as if New York had got itself a real mayor for a change when it moved Joseph V. McKee into the place vacated by the colorful Jimmy Walker. By knocking $2,000,000 off city salaries almost before he had got his new chair warm and by indicating that economy and efficiency were actually going to be sought after at the city hall, Mr. McKee gave New York a real surprise—and, at the same time, gave all of the rest of the country an object lesson.

Those of us who do not live in New York have no very direct concern with the oddities of New York politics. But the whole New York mayoralty situation has become of general importance simply because it illustrates so perfectly the sort of thing that happens at one time or another to practically every other city.

During boom times New York could afford to have almost any kind of city government. Characteristically, it blew itself to a third-rate variety with a mayor who was considered exceedingly charming but slightly expensive. For a long time this seemed to be just what the doctor had ordered. But an expensive and inefficient city government does not look quite as attractive when times are bad as when they are good. Jimmy Walker made his exit without provoking any more public mourning than could be conveniently handled. Joseph McKee, starting out as if he meant to give the city that rarity in American municipal politics, an honest and business-like administration, evoked resounding cheers. New York may yet, of course, toss Mr. McKee out of the window. The gentleman may stay on the job and backslide. But so far the situation is encouraging to those who want good government.

BANK CLEARINGS BEGIN TO SHOW IMPROVEMENT

It may be that the corner around which prosperity is supposed to be has not yet been discovered; but the report of Canadian bank clearings this week indicates a trend similar to that of seven years ago. While it is true that in most cities the total is less than it was last year, the disparity between 1932 and 1931 noticeable in the early summer is nothing like as great now. Victoria can be taken as an example. Not very long ago local bank clearings were behind those of 1931 by at least half a million dollars; for the week ending at the close of business yesterday the drop as compared with the corresponding week of last year was just a little more than a quarter of a million. Toronto has closed up the gap very considerably, while Calgary shows an increase this week over the corresponding week of last year, with Vancouver's return revealing much less of a falling off than was the case a few weeks ago. Bank clearings may or may not be a very reliable sign of what is going on in the economic world; we merely refer to the official report for this week to emphasize the fact that as they began to rise at the latter part of 1925, so did the clouds of the 1921-1922 depression begin to lift.

AN IMPARTIAL VIEW OF LANCASHIRE'S COTTON STRIKE

"Any impartial observer who glances in retrospect at the background from which this stoppage has arisen must be struck with the utter contrast of the issues and of the policies which the two parties to the dispute have followed."—The Economist (London, England), in a recent issue discussing Lancashire's cotton strike.

In an industry overstaffed and overplanted, whose essential needs are orderly contraction and concentration of production, better methods of marketing and the elimination of "weak selling," the employers' fitful and largely abortive efforts at rationalization during recent years, The Economist goes on, were scarcely calculated to appeal to the operatives as convincingly meriting mutual co-operation at the cost of sacrifice on their side. We then read further:

"Yet, though this may be pleaded in the workers' defence, the vacillating and obstructive attitude of the Weavers' Amalgamation to the introduction of the 'more looms' system went far to justify the employers in feeling that one logical road to the restoration of Lancashire's competitive efficiency was being blocked by trade union intransigence."

"The protracted and never finally composed disagreement on this question had a not unnatural consequence in the decision of the employers to press for a county reduction of wages as an alternative means of economy. Which would the weavers at heart prefer—the wider introduction of the 'more looms' system, or a general wage reduction, if displacement of labor as a result of working more looms per weaver were thereby obviated?"

"The public is singularly ill-informed as to this question. All it knows is that the weavers were apparently prepared at one stage to concede a wage reduction of six and one-quarter per cent in place of the ten per cent which the employers finally demanded. Nor does it know what purpose the employers imagine would be achieved by a wage reduction which was not accompanied by a wholesale reorganization of the structure of the cotton industry."

The Economist says in conclusion that some day this stoppage will end one way or another—to-day's dispatches from Manchester announce that the full committee of employers and workers are about to meet—but, in our judgment, the promptness with which the government decides to intervene and bring both sides together, will be the factor determining whether the strike ends in bitterness and chaos likely to defeat all hopes for many years of better days for a reorganized Lancashire, or whether counsels of sanity and co-operation can be made to prevail before it is too late, and before the irrevocable loss of still more export-business makes it certain that many thousands of those weavers who have now left work will never again enter a weaving mill."

Mr. Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, drew a good deal of attention to himself when he came over to the United States under the alias "Professor Clarence Skinner." We wonder whether he knew that there was a real Professor Clarence Skinner, a professor of Applied Christianity at Tufts Theological College. This discovery inspires a contemporary to say that "what really interests us, since this disclosure, is a speculation upon what will happen if the real Professor Skinner gets mad, and assumes the name of Montagu Norman." The next time the Bank of England governor crosses the Atlantic on a supposedly secret mission the best thing he can do is call himself Bill Jones and let it go at that; he would be lost in the forest of Bill Joneses throughout the world.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

ONE STAMP SHORT
 The New York Sun

The ironic form of punishment known as poetic justice was so completely visited upon a British woman of late that all the world should hear about it. The woman, described by The London Morning Post as well-to-do, handed into a post office a letter bearing a three-halfpenny stamp which had been previously used. For doing this she was brought before the magistrates, fined $25 and ordered to pay costs to the amount of $17.50 shillings.

Evidence produced before the magistrates was that the letter was to a betting commissioner, placing bets on horses which won and which would have yielded a profit of more than $25. The letter was not delivered; the bets were not placed; the profit was not made. All for lack of a three-halfpenny stamp.

Loose Ends

The veterans fail to see the logic of it—we go about blind to the romance on our street corners—a great luminary appears in the sky—and I suffer a grave disillusionment.

By H. B. W.

THE TUBERCULOUS VETERANS

Branch of the Canadian Legion demands the conscription of wealth in a national emergency like the present. It holds that a country which conscripts men's lives for war purposes, and does not hesitate to spend them more lavishly than its money, should not object to conscripting men's property, provided they have more than they need. Apparently the veterans, with a curious lack of vision, cannot see the logic of an arrangement whereby their lives have been shattered to make a world "fit for heroes to live in" and yet wealth is protected, so far as it can be protected by the state, from any chance of inconvenience. The war veterans appear appallingly ignorant of the fine inner workings of it all. They don't seem to realize, when it is obvious to any one who cares to look, that all our arrangements are built on the principle of protecting property and, if necessary, sacrificing everything else, including soldiers in war time and everybody in peace time. The present world situation is a radical doctrine as the notion of protecting property and, if necessary, sacrificing everything else, including soldiers in war time and everybody in peace time. The present world situation is a radical doctrine as the notion of protecting property and, if necessary, sacrificing everything else, including soldiers in war time and everybody in peace time. The present world situation is a radical doctrine as the notion of protecting property and, if necessary, sacrificing everything else, including soldiers in war time and everybody in peace time.

MOST PEOPLE, I am convinced—myself included, of course—go through life with their eyes half closed part of the time and entirely closed most of the time. You will see what I mean if you will examine some of the pictures which a few of the real photographic artists of Victoria have been making lately. One of them in particular has made some pictures which, in quality of tone, in delicate shading, in the grouping of masses, are almost as good as the best water colors, infinitely better than most dabs. I do not like to admit it, since they are produced by a machine and not by hand, yet I suppose that the use of the camera in this fashion is as much an exercise of creative instincts as the use of a brush.

ANYWAY, YOU should see what the photographers have found out about the town which we have quite overlooked. The man I have in mind can walk down one of our ugliest streets, whip out a camera, and produce a delightful little composition with a happy, dreamy look about it, which I can never perceive on our thoroughfares; though it is not unknown in some phases of our communal life. One day, for instance, this fellow took his camera down behind the Post Office. Now there is nothing behind the Post Office of any interest. It is a dull place of bricks and mortar. Yet the resulting picture looked like a street in some ancient French city, with a peasant's cart joggling by in a cloud of dust, the walls of a grim fortress at the left (that was the Post Office) and a towered chateau in the distance (the Empress Hotel). This chap goes about the waterfront and turns a few dirty fishing boats into such a romantic image of adventure that you can smell the salt sea and yearn to become a pirate on the bounding main. He wanders out into Spanish, snaps an old farm gate and his picture seems to smell of ripening grain and brown wheat. The point is that he can see the picture himself before the camera makes it. The town evidently is full of them. We live in a fabled city of romance and mystery and adventure if we only had eyes to perceive it. But sometimes it is hard, with a clapper in the foreground and the Parliament Buildings and the P.G.E. sale in the background.

MIND YOU, I have nothing to say against a satisfactory P.G.E. sale. I shall hope that it is sold on good terms, though it will be a sad blow to politics to lose such a faithful old friend, and half the fun will go out of our public life. But what interests me in the whole matter is the remarkable regularity of P.G.E. deal. It never occurs at odd moments like any other business transaction. It never just happens. It appears in a regular course, exactly like a comet. It comes within our earthly ken at prescribed seasons, which men of science can foresee. I do not like to boast, but as a man of political science I believe I could foretell the coming of the next P.G.E. deal years ahead, almost to the month. It is not a complicated calculation for a political scientist like me, and I do not mind revealing it to you.

TAKE THEM, the date of the last election. Add four years and allow a few extra months in case of accidents, or a little longer if times are bad and the electorate restive. Then you may be pretty sure of hitting the P.G.E. deal just right. It has always revolved thus on a quadrilateral course, as regular as the revolutions of the spheres. It appeared with varying luminosity in 1920, 1924 and 1928. In fact, if it ever ceases to appear at four-year intervals you may suspect that the laws of physics have collapsed and that the universe will soon follow. And, of course, if the P.G.E. deal should change its schedule and revolve every five or six years, then it will be necessary to change our election laws and the span of our legislatures to conform with it; for time in politics is not reckoned by the motions of the sun, but by the more constant gyrations of this greater luminary, this mighty sun which bathes the world of politics in a glittering, unbroken splendour for a few years, and then plunges it into four years of utter darkness and despair.

FOR MANY years now (if you will allow this work of personal explanation and a brief account of my great disillusionment)—I have been trying to discover what a cricket is. I do not refer to the game of that name, which is equally mysterious to me, but to the insect. I am not concerned with the mysteries of cricket as played with a bat and ball, but I have puzzled all my life to discover what makes that charming little song of autumn in our fields, the faint sweet chirp which in these days fills the air out this way like innumerable birds. I have always thought the sound was made by a cricket, but what is a cricket? And how to find him? Time after time I have listened to a chirp and crept on it stealthily, without a sound. But always when I got within a few feet of the tuft of grass where the sound seemed to come from, it ceased. By some uncanny instinct the cricket always knew I was coming.

WELL, TO-DAY there was such a chirping of crickets as I have never heard out in my rock garden. It seemed to come from a trailing plant of subterfuge. So I decided on bold and desperate measures. I rushed forward, I lifted the whole plant bodily, exposing the ground beneath it. There in their scores and hundreds, it seemed to me, were not the beautiful crickets I had pictured, nor the winged songsters of my imaginings, but a mass of hideous black things like cockroaches. They all scurried away as fast as they could go and I didn't try to stop them. My illusions had been shattered. I shall never listen to the sweet autumn song of our fields with pleasure any more. I shall always think of those black, unclean bugs. And now I am told that they don't really sing at all. Their noise is made by rubbing their legs together. The song of our fields is no song, but merely the sound of filthy insects scratching themselves. It is just as well not to look too closely into nature.

BRITISH GROUP "JAFSIE" HUNTS IS AFTER P.G.E. AT ST. JOHN

Powerful Syndicate Sending Out Agents to Negotiate, Says Reginald Hayward

Plan Under Consideration Involves Large Colonization Project

"I am in a position to say that large British capital is vitally interested in the P.G.E.," said Reginald Hayward, M.P.P., on his return to the city yesterday afternoon from a lengthy vacation in Europe.

"It was given to understand in London that representatives of a powerful British syndicate would shortly come out to British Columbia to open negotiations with the government," he added.

Asserting that this country was the "pet baby of the Empire" in British financial circles, Mr. Hayward stated he had learned on unimpeachable authority that $1,000,000,000 was available for investment in Canada.

"The syndicate I speak of has in the past invested heavily outside the Empire, particularly in the Argentine, but the leader, a prominent banker, has persuaded his colleagues to invest more within the Empire and British Columbia has been chosen as the best bet," said Mr. Hayward.

"I am not at liberty to divulge the name of this syndicate, but its principals stand high in financial circles."

COLONIZATION PLAN

The British plan in connection with the P.G.E. Mr. Hayward said, would involve a great colonization project. Because he has not had an opportunity to study in any form the negotiations which have been under way between the provincial government and a group reported to be headed by United States interests, the member for Victoria was not prepared to discuss at this time the scheme which is now holding the limelight for the disposal of the P.G.E. Railway.

But he let it be understood that he would have something further to say on the subject at the proper time. In any event the railway cannot be disposed of without the deal being settled by the Legislature. And by that time, Mr. Hayward believes, the new proposals backed by strong British financial interests, will be before the government here.

Colombian-Peru Army Clash Is Threatened

Associated Press

Rio de Janeiro, Sept. 23.—Reports from Manaus, in western Brazil, to-day said Colombia was mobilizing troops and airplanes in the Putumayo district, near Leticia, over which there recently has been a clamor for war with Peru.

The dispatch said the Colombian garrisons at Popatan San Miguel and Puerto Asis were proceeding toward the Putumayo River and would embark for Leticia.

It added 2,000 Colombians would soon pass through Brazilian territory to retake Leticia, which was seized by Peruvian civilians recently.

Leticia is a Colombian River port.

DE VALERA RULE
WILL BE SHORTFarmers Who Put Him in Will Kick Him Out, Reginald
Hayward SaysTariff Strikes Hard As Promised Markets Fail to Develop

Edmond de Valera's tenure of the presidency of the Irish Free State will be of short duration, in the opinion of Reginald Hayward, M.P.P., who returned home yesterday after spending some months in the Free State, Scotland and England.

"The farmers who put him in will throw him out," he said. The farmer was the first man to feel the effects of the tariff the British had placed on Free State products and he had been badly hit.

"De Valera promised immunity from payment of the British land annuities. He assured them it would be an easy matter to find other markets, but they did not find any. The British market is the only market which the Irish could count upon, and de Valera has been responsible for the taking of that market from them."

Mr. Hayward, who was accompanied on his tour by his eldest son, Reginald Jr., visited relatives at Athy, thirty-eight miles distant from Dublin, in County Kildare.

"I would not be surprised if someone took a shot at him," said Mr. Hayward, speaking of de Valera. The people of the district where he stayed went about in constant fear. At night lights were put out, blinds drawn, shutters closed and doors barred.

His brother-in-law had been stopped from entering Phoenix Park at the time of the Eucharistic Congress celebrations because he did not carry a flag.

From the Irish Free State, Mr. Hayward proceeded to Glasgow, where he immediately sensed a freer atmosphere. He remained in Scotland for two weeks and then went on to London.

HIGH TAXATION

Mr. Hayward found a good feeling in London. "They are taxed to the limit, but realize the country needs the money, so they do their best to pay up and grin," he said in telling of the splendid spirit of the British people. "All the time I was there I never heard anyone complain. We don't know what taxation is here."

He said the British Government took 16 cents from the sale of every gallon of petrol, which retails to the consumer there at 32 cents.

There was some political capital made in Great Britain out of the issues arising from the Ottawa Conference, said Mr. Hayward, but the solid trend of opinion was that the conference would be of great benefit to the empire as a whole.

B.C. lumbermen, he claimed, could offset the Russian competition to some extent, by studying and complying with the market requirements.

Merchantable lumber must be supplied at the exact sizes required and there must be a continuity of supply. Until the B.C. lumber mill operators realized this they would not get the business.

In Great Britain, he said, they were prepared to inject a little sentiment into the business and even pay a little more for empire lumber, providing they could get it to their requirements.

In the British capital there are no surface indications of the crisis through which the country is passing. The theatres and the shops are always busy and the people dress well, he said.

"Cavalcade," a stage production depicting notable events in British history, has been running for seven months at the Drury Lane Theatre. The moving picture houses and the variety shows draw capacity audiences. The transportation systems were busy and during the summer the city people flocked to the seashore resorts as they have been in the habit of doing in more favorable times. All of which, says Mr. Hayward, goes to show that money is circulating freely.

The Victoria member spoke highly of the valuable work of the B.C. House in London, and said he was opposed to it being closed down.

SALARY GROUP
TO MEET OCT. 1Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe Asks
For Teaching Report By November 1

An important report from the teachers' salary standardization committee is expected to be in the hands of Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe, Minister of Education, by November 1. Mr. Hinchliffe has asked for a report by this date from the special advisory committee, which consists of five teachers and nine representatives of the taxpayers, and it is reported the teachers are becoming more amenable to a temporary reduction in salaries, though no definite basis of agreement has been reached as yet.

The committee, of which Judge Cayley is chairman, will meet Saturday, October 1, in the Court House at Vancouver, and it is hoped an advance will be made in the discussions. R. F. Blandy, municipal clerk of Oak Bay, is chairman of the people's panel of the committee, which includes George Kidd and R. W. Mayhew, members of the Kidd committee which recently reported on provincial administration.

DURABILITY IN ROADS NEEDEDOf Cardinal Importance in Construction, A. E. Foreman
Tells RotariansSketches Development of Highways From Early Days
of Cheops

Durability was of cardinal importance in road construction, A. E. Foreman, Vancouver, former provincial government engineer and present district engineer for the B.C. Cement Company, told members of the Rotary Club at their luncheon in the Empress Hotel yesterday. While the initial cost of making roads more durable might be considerably higher than that entailed in the ordinary highway construction, the amount saved through lack of upkeep would more than compensate a community for the extra money, he said.

Probably in the last twenty-five years there had been more development in highway traffic and highway construction than there had been in the preceding eighteen centuries, Mr. Foreman said.

He touched upon the early road construction of Cheops and other Egyptian rulers. Many of those highways are still standing, he said.

Turning to the Roman era, he sketched the road building in Britain and Italy, paying particular attention to the Apennine Way.

Through the Middle Ages, roads were neglected and even destroyed, the speaker remarked.

Following the Roman advance the next step forward took place in the days of Teiford and Macadam in Great Britain.

AUTOS CALLED FOR IMPROVEMENT

With the development of the automobile following 1896, highway building moved ahead with a new tar surface being laid on the macadam base. Trucks, with their tremendous weight, broke up the macadam base and a new type of road, with a concrete foundation, was developed.

A little over two decades ago wear and tear became of secondary importance to safety. This brought out the fact that concrete provided a surface which did not permit skidding to as great an extent as other types.

The first new type highway in British Columbia was Sheilbourne Street, he said.

The speaker referred to the numerous tests to which roads were subjected in the United States centres.

These tests revealed it was necessary to have a very strong base with a surface thicker at the edges than in the middle or the road.

SMOOTH RIDING

Concrete provided a smooth riding surface, Mr. Foreman added, noting the importance of this feature to automobile owners.

Maintenance was a most important factor, he continued, saying that well-made roads here were so well constructed they required little expenditure in upkeep.

He also referred to the saving made by motorists using cement pavements over those using gravel roads.

In British Columbia there was a tendency to secure road mileage instead of durability. What the province should do was to benefit from the knowledge of other countries and pay more attention to durability, he said.

As travel was moving more and more from rail to highway, the greater was the necessity for more serious consideration of road construction and improvements. The more durable the roads for heavy traffic, the less expensive they were in the long run, he concluded.

George McGregor, president, thanked the speaker for his address.

WATER CUT OFF
RUMOR KILLEDSaanich Not Considering
Stoppage of Supply to Workless Homes

The Saanich Council had never contemplated any policy of wholesale cessation of water supply to homes of workless residents in arrears with their water bills, Reeve Crouch protested yesterday evening, when a letter from the Ward Seven Ratepayers' Association, asking details of rumored drastic action, was read.

Reeve Crouch recalled that, at a recent meeting of the association, statements had been made that the council was considering opening stand-pipe taps in central locations to supply families in houses in arrears, who were to be cut off from the mains. "We never dreamed of it," he protested.

Councillor Somers, chairman of the water committee, secured approval of resolution setting out that careful

RELIEF ORDER IS PROTESTED

Municipal Union Will Interview Relief Committee of Cabinet Wednesday Morning

Costly Rules Viewed as Last Straws to Crush Municipalities

To receive protests from the executive committee of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities regarding changes in the regulations governing transients in municipalities, Hon. W. A. McKenzie, Minister of Labor, has arranged a meeting with the union executive committee of the cabinet, to be held next Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock at the Parliament Buildings. All members of the union executive will attend. The meeting was originally scheduled to be held on Tuesday, but has been postponed to permit Hon. J. W. Jones, Minister of Finance, to be present.

Many municipalities have already registered with the union complaints regarding the new regulations. Mayor A. Wells of New Westminster, secretary of the union, this morning announced that he has advised complaining municipalities to equip the union executive with detailed figures regarding the effect of the new regulations in increasing unemployment.

It is feared that the effect of the new regulation which rejects municipal residents from transient lists, and restores returned absentees to municipal responsibility, will be to cause many municipalities to declare themselves unable to provide relief during the coming winter.

GOVERNMENTS SAVE
Rejection from transient lists of newcomers who have undertaken to purchase homes in municipalities is also being strongly criticized. Several municipalities, including the Coast, claim that the new rule will be severely hit by this order, civic experts declare.

Many people came from the prairie since January 1, 1931, and invested a small sum of money, expecting to make subsequent payments from income due from farms and other interests in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Many cases are known where such people, deprived of their expected income, have been compelled to apply for relief. Municipalities regard such cases as being truly transient as are similar families occupying rented houses.

Under the new regulations families in this rating category will continue to be eligible for federal and provincial relief as transients, while families arriving since 1930, occupying homes on which they have made one or more payments, will become liabilities of the municipalities in which they reside. By this new rule it is expected the federal and provincial governments will ease the municipalities with a further burden of $250,000.

ECLIPSE OF SUN OUTLINED

Interesting Facts Learned at Last Eclipse, Astronomical Society Is Told

Contrary to popular belief, solar eclipses were more numerous than lunar eclipses but they were comparatively rare because they often occurred in unfrequented or inaccessible places, said W. E. Harper, M.A., assistant director of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory here, in an address on "The Solar Eclipse of 1932" at the first autumn meeting of the Victoria centre of the Royal Canadian Astronomical Society in Unity Centre yesterday evening.

On an average, there were fifty per cent more solar eclipses than lunar. Dr. Harper stated at the beginning of an address during which he described the various observational parties at the recent eclipses and gave special attention to the group which he and Dr. C. S. Seals joined at Magog in Quebec. The largest possible number of solar and lunar eclipses in a year was seven, either five solar and two lunar or four solar and three lunar; the minimum number was two, both solar, the speaker noted.

Dr. Harper sketched the nineteenth century eclipses in southern Europe, Norway, India, Spain and other places, during which the "prominences" or streamers that jut out when the disc of the sun was totally covered by the moon, were investigated and scientifically accounted for, and information was gathered on the "flash spectrum," the "corona" and the "shadow bands."

The post-war eclipses in Brazil and Australia, he continued, had seemed to bear out the Einstein theory of two stars being drawn closer together after the sun had come into the field between them.

BROADCASTING DATA
One interesting result of the recent eclipse, Dr. Harper pointed out, was the data gathered concerning the Heaviside layer, the story of which is bound up with the story of radio. The presence of this layer had been an explanation for the better long distance radio reception at night, since it was thought that in the daytime either ultra-violet rays or corpuscles from the sun ionized the layer in some way, causing it to descend from about 250 kilometres from the earth to about 100 kilometres and thus militating against the progress of electro-magnetic waves around the earth.

It was argued, the speaker continued, that the Heaviside layer should react in the same way during an eclipse as during an ordinary night, and this was what happened. Simultaneously with the commencement of the eclipse, radio conditions improved and it would seem there was some ray from the sun with necessarily the same speed as light, causing the change in the layer from day to night.

Dr. Harper spoke a few words on the various instruments used to observe all the different details of an eclipse and mentioned briefly the various expeditions which took up positions in Canada and the United States during the recent eclipse on a line extending from northern Ontario and Quebec to Maine and the Atlantic Coast. Most of these met with unfavorable weather, including the group the speaker was with at Magog, but valuable photographs were taken at several points.

GHOSTLINESS
In the Magog group there were about sixty astronomers and scientists, said Dr. Harper. His own impression of the eclipse was the ghostliness of everything round him as darkness set in and the predominating color of purple. Commercially, the eclipse was a great success, since transportation companies of all kinds and the sellers of colored glasses profited. On one excursion boat out of Montreal, all but four of the 1,000 passengers had a beautiful view of the eclipse, and these four women were too wrapped up in a game of bridge below decks to come up for the sight.

In 1964, there will be a total eclipse in Borneo; in 1966 over a line extending from Greece to Siberia, and in 1937 in Peru, the speaker concluded. Mr. Harper was thanked by Dr. J. S. Plasket, who also went east without success to see the eclipse, and by P. H. Hughes, the president, who also announced that H. Boyd Brydon's private telescope would be open for use by members every Wednesday evening between 8 and 10 o'clock.

Taylorville, Ill., Sept. 23.—Military forces swung into action to-day to prevent any disorders in the mine war in Illinois. A total of 180 National Guardsmen took their posts at Langleyville, near here, determined to prevent striking miners from picketing Mine No. 9 of the Peabody Coal Company.

..WEAK KIDNEYS..

Chatham, Ont. — "My little daughter, Edith, age 8, was troubled with weak kidneys. When she was on her feet while she seemed to have no control over her kidneys at all. She was restless and nervous, hardly slept at all at night, and her appetite was so poor," said Mrs. A. Fortescue of 12 Alfred St. "Less than two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Anur Tablets strengthened her kidneys wonderfully so that they now act in a normal way. She is no longer restless or nervous and her appetite is fine."

Your Baby
and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

NO EXCUSE FOR POSTPONING
WEANING LONGER

This is the month when baby should be weaned. If, for some reason, he has been nursed through the summer, there is no longer any necessity for respecting the temperature. Baby's increasing nutritional needs demand attention. If he is seven or eight or nine months old he will suffer in no way from being taken from the breast and put on a good milk formula.

GIVE BABY A CHANCE

The transition from breast to bottle should be a gradual one, which is most comfortable for all concerned. Baby should be given a chance to grow accustomed to the new way of eating before he is deprived of nursing. His digestion does not suffer when his new food is introduced one bottle feeding at a time. And his mother does not undergo any distress from engorgement of the breast if she goes about weaning in a leisurely fashion.

The usual method is to give the baby one bottle feeding the first week, two the second, three the third, and four the fourth. The fifth feeding can be a nursing at night until such time as the mother is weaned. If baby has not been fed at night, nursing ends when the fourth bottle is given.

BOTTLE MILK

If milk is a new food to the baby, this first bottle feeding should be carefully prepared. When the first bottle makes the baby sick, this immeasurably handicaps the mother in the weaning, so the first bottle should be "easy" on baby's digestion to prevent any such happening.

Boiled milk is easy to digest, and is a safe milk. First of all, then, put more milk than will be needed on the stove in a clean pan, watch it carefully, stir constantly, and let it boil for three minutes after it has come to a boil. Then measure out sufficient for the first bottle feeding. The eight months baby may have four to five ounces of milk, four to three ounces of boiled water and two or three level teaspoons of sugar. The amounts depend somewhat on baby's age and weight. The larger baby should have the larger amounts, and a large baby of eight would weigh more than seventeen pounds.

GETTING STARTED

The first bottle may be offered at 10 a.m. immediately after the cereal feeding. Part of the bottle may be used over the cereal and the rest may be given to drink. Continue this for one week. In the meantime, the strength of the milk may be increased very slowly. This ceremony is thoroughly explained in my new leaflet, "Feeding From Nine to Twelve Months," and also in the leaflet, "Weaning the Breastfed Baby." These two simplify the whole process of weaning the baby and increasing his solid foods, so that no one could possibly make a mistake. Mothers should send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope for one or both of these leaflets. Babies who are adept at drinking from a cup should be weaned to a cup and not a bottle. This again depends greatly on the child. If baby needs every drop of his milk and cannot take all of it by cup, it may be better to wean him to a bottle and then begin weaning slowly to a cup, so that at one year he can take all of his milk in the latter way. Each mother knows her baby best and should do what she thinks is best for the baby.

A.Y.P.A. ELECTS
NEW OFFICERS

Jack Aylwin Chosen President of Local Council Yesterday Evening

Enthusiasm marked the opening meeting of the Victoria and District Local Council of the A.Y.P.A. yesterday evening when many plans were outlined for the near future. The retiring executive was warmly commended for its splendid work during the past season and the following were elected as officers for the ensuing year: Patron, Right Rev. C. D. Schofield, Bishop of Columbia; chairman, Rev. A. M. Acheson-Lyle; honorary president, S. C. Hawkins; honorary vice-president, Miss Dallain; president, Jack Aylwin; vice-president, David Pitt; recording secretary, Miss Helyar; corresponding secretary, Miss MacPhillips; publicity secretary, Miss Clarenda Jeeves; treasurer, John Medley.

These officers will be installed by Dr. Hiltz, general secretary of the General Board of Religious Education, during his visit in Victoria on October 1. On this occasion all who are interested in A.Y.P.A. will be given an opportunity to hear an address given by Dr. Hiltz, who is a member of the Dominion Executive of the A.Y.P.A. On Thanksgiving Day some 20,000 young people, representing over 800 branches of the A.Y.P.A. throughout the Dominion, will hold a Corporate Communion in Victoria, this service will be held at St. Albans Church, the Bishop of Columbia being the celebrant.

An invitation has been extended to the provincial council of the A.Y.P.A. to hold an A.Y.P.A. conference at Victoria in the spring.

Miss Helyar gave an encouraging report regarding the sale of stamps for the Columbia Coast Mission, which is being sponsored by the local council. A substantial sum has already been collected and plans are under way for increasing this.

The meeting was brought to a close with a short prayer by the chaplain.

If a food has the slightest unnatural odor, or sign of decay, do not eat or cook it. It is not enough to dispose of the affected part. The contamination is just as likely to be present in the rest of the meat, fruit or vegetable. Poisoning from contaminated food is much too prevalent for anyone to run a risk. If there is an unpleasant odor about a can, when you open it, destroy its contents at once. Never risk using them.

Tasting a canned product and finding the flavor agreeable does not prove that the food is safe. If there is the least unnatural odor, discard it.

USE CARE IN PACKING CHILDREN'S LUNCH

An adequate and well-balanced meal is as necessary for the school lunchbox as the home luncheon. This meal must be a satisfactory supplement to the other two meals of the day and must be nourishing and inviting. If carefully thought out and planned the day before, there will be less confusion in the morning before school when every minute must count.

It is very easy to let school lunches become monotonous. Certain foods pack easier than others, it is true, but different combinations and changes can be worked out that will make the luncheon more interesting to both the packer and the child.

Careful consideration should be given to personal likes and dislikes. Neatness and order appeal to all children. Girls like neat, big, like daintiness. Boys, on the other hand, scoff at this feminine trait and want big thick sandwiches, big thick cookies and so on through the list.

Another factor of importance is the age of the child. Children under twelve require a different sort of lunch than that planned for the boy or girl in high school.

If there is not a school cafeteria, a hot drink or soup should be carried in a thermos bottle. The hot food aids digestion and does much to relieve nerve strain.

The sandwich is the mainstay of the lunch box and must be concocted to furnish much food value. Variety of breads as well as fillings make it possible to vary the sandwich from day to day.

Carefully wrapped celery, radishes, carrot sticks and hearts of cauliflower give balance to the meal by supplying bulk and crispness to a diet that is likely to be concentrated and soft.

Whenever meat is used in a sandwich, try to combine it with lettuce, grated carrot or minced celery. The combination gains both food value and piquancy.

Fresh fruit always is suitable and desirable for dessert and is easy to pack. Individual baked custards and firm tapioca puddings can be used occasionally for variety. Cookies and cup cakes are popular and are easy to eat. Three or four dates, raisins, figs and well scrubbed prunes also will satisfy a child's natural craving for sweets and add nourishment as well.

The packing of the food in the lunchbox is of vast importance. There are so many attractive containers available at small cost that the task is lightened and neatness is assured. Well-wrapped foods stay fresh and appetizing, so use plenty of waxed paper, wrapping each article before putting it in the box.

TO HOLD ANNUAL POUND PARTY

The W.C.T.U. Home, Ida Street, which will hold its annual pound party next Wednesday, when donations of staples, linens, or anything suitable for use in the home, will be welcomed. The home has been carrying on a valuable work for many years in assisting unfortunate girls to get a fresh start in life and so rarely makes a public appeal that the committee feels confident that their pound party on Wednesday will meet with a generous response.

Put the dessert in first. Otherwise the box must be unpacked to reach the sandwiches and there is the possibility that the dessert only will be eaten and the rest of the lunch overlooked.

TOMORROW'S MENU

Breakfast — Grapefruit juice, salt codfish hash, cornmeal muffins, milk, coffee.

Luncheon — Scalloped rice and mushrooms, hearts of celery, toasted muffins, grapes, milk, tea.

Dinner — Liver and bacon, mashed potatoes, creamed onions, lettuce with Thousand Island dressing, peach shortcake, milk, coffee.

School of Expression
Holds Its Opening

The studio of the Victoria School of Expression was crowded to capacity yesterday evening for the formal opening of the season. Visitors were welcomed by Captain and Mrs. Wilfrid Ord, and Mrs. Ord gave an informal talk on the work of the school, emphasizing the fact that the spoken word has been neglected ever since the invention of printing, and making a strong plea for the inclusion of speech training in the education of young people.

The second part of the programme consisted of a dramatic story told by Mrs. Ord with magnetic personality and compelling charm.

HOLD MEETING OF HUNT CLUB

First Paper-chase of Season to Be Held This Saturday at 2.30 From Willows

Additional officers were elected at the meeting of the Victoria Hunt Club held Wednesday evening at the Willows Park, when D. B. Carley of the Victoria Riding Academy was named first vice-president and Commander C. H. B. Slingsby was named to the executive committee. Other officers elected at the first meeting held last week were J. McAllan, president; Mrs. J. McAllan, secretary; executive, Miss Margot Robertson and Miss Mollie Miller with Mrs. Dugald L. Gillespie, field master.

The Victoria Hunt Club, which has been in existence off and on in Victoria for the last thirty-five years, decided that paper-chases would be the rule this season and a unanimous vote it was decided that the membership fee should remain the same as last year, and the money obtained from members owning horses should be used to provide jumps.

A good deal of discussion, led by Commander Slingsby, was held in connection with the possibilities of providing an outside course with jumps, both post and rail and brush type. The opinion was expressed it would be in the interests of the club to have an outside course for members to exercise their mounts on and to practice jumping and lunging. Although no formal motion was passed it was the opinion of everybody present that a course should be provided in the near future. It was decided to hold the first ride of the club this Saturday. Members of the club will meet at the Victoria Riding Academy at 2.30 o'clock and start from there. This chase will be the first of many to be held during the coming season, and the executive plans to hold indoor rides in case of inclement weather. The riders will leave the Willows Park at 2.30 sharp.

It was suggested that a gymkhana be held this winter for the purpose of raising funds to help in the establishment of a riding path. The members agreed that it would be necessary in the near future to acquire riding paths as suitable rides were becoming more and more scarce, but the matter was left in abeyance.

St. Joseph's Junior W.A.—The Junior Auxiliary of St. Joseph's Hospital will hold a rummage sale on Saturday, October 1, at the store formerly occupied by Savory's, Douglas Street. Donations of superfluous or old clothes will be most gratefully welcomed and will be called for on telephoning to Garden 3156.

COMMENTS ON KIDD COMMITTEE REPORT

By LIEUTENANT-COLONEL R. ROSS NAPIER
(Formerly Departmental Commissioner)

PART THREE

CHAPTER FIVE: DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE

The urban viewpoint of the committee is nowhere more clearly demonstrated than in this chapter, which deals, in part, with the administrative service throughout the province, a service with the details of which the committee could not possibly be acquainted. Any information which the committee appears to have obtained from individual officials having the viewpoint of their respective departments in Victoria, without any information of a practical nature from the outside officials having actual knowledge of the situation. It is not surprising, therefore, to anyone having an intimate knowledge of the subject, that the report shows considerable observation of the obvious, while overlooking the essential, and that the recommendations in many cases are superficial, or, being formed on totally erroneous premises, could not or should not be carried out. Unfortunately, the only drastic suggestions in this chapter come under the latter heading, while drastic and practical suggestions which might have been made to insure proper financial administration to the people of the province, have been completely overlooked. This is the more regrettable, as the committee's report, having great public and political interest, will undoubtedly be read by many, and a false impression will be made by the report.

"This department has been particularly fortunate in the number of reports it has received recommending reorganization with the object of greater efficiency and economy." Mention is also made of the survey made in 1928-29 by Messrs. Hewitt, MacLachlan and Company of the financial affairs of the province and its accounting system. Although Messrs. Hewitt, MacLachlan and Company's report, which was restricted to the viewpoint from the Finance Department, Victoria, was found, except in one particular, as far as it went, with my own reports made from a much wider view of the administration throughout the province. It is a standing job in the Civil Service that after some officials have been the midnight oil in concentrating a report on some subject of great importance and intricacy, to the irreducible minimum compatible with its comprehension, he is invited to "put it in two or three lines on half a sheet of nonpareil," and, as Messrs. Hewitt and MacLachlan's report concerned economy, the last thing to be given consideration, I doubt if it has ever been read or considered by the members of the executive. Certainly no attempt has been made to put it into effect. In my own case, after two years' work as Departmental Commissioner, I was informed by the Provincial Secretary who, according to my commission, was my channel of communication with the executive, that a large number of my reports on a variety of subjects, in connection with possible economies and reorganization, had never been seen by anyone but himself and that he had never read them. It is somewhat grudgingly admitted by the committee's report that all the suggestions for practical economy have come from within the Civil Service.

POLITICAL CONSIDERATIONS

Attention is called to "the large number of administrative and other divisions of the province, and it is stated that while the Civil Service has attempted to remedy the situation nothing has been done owing to political considerations. A suggestion is made that all divisions be made to conform to the eighteen Dominion statistical areas. While in theory this may sound practical it must be borne in mind that the subject is one of great difficulty, the water districts having been created with relation to the watersheds, land districts according to the nature of the land and physical characteristics, mining districts according to the minerals and mining activities, while assessment, electoral, court, etc. districts have been created for totally different reasons. While the present state of matters has undoubtedly been aggravated to some extent by the ever-increasing "departmentalism" and lack of co-ordination, it is one that has had great consideration by individual officials, and the situation can only be corrected by meetings of deputy ministers and various senior officials, with due authorization by the executive to deal with the subject.

The most important recommendation of this section is that the number of reports be reduced to fourteen, with the object, in two or three years, of reducing them to seven. Let me say immediately that any such ill-considered action would be disastrous in the extreme, and could never have been recommended by anyone having comprehension of the administrative needs of this vast province. In effect the suggestion is that while the public services which the cities have at their own door be continued, these services be removed from the outside population, where even now they may be made use of with considerable travel and inconvenience.

I am at one with the committee as to the possibility of reduction of the number of agencies, and the government is in possession of an exhaustive report by myself, dated July 17, 1931, covering every phase of the subject and giving detailed suggestions for complete reorganization and gradual contraction on lines of efficiency and economy. Whether the committee has ever had an opportunity of reading this report or not I am unaware, but it is the result of an experience of more than a decade in the closest connection, in various official capacities, with agencies of the province, and a personal knowledge of each, with the exception of Atlin, Telegraph Creek and Pouce Coupe. During that period I have never hesitated to oppose on every opportunity the establishment or maintenance of an agency for purely political, as opposed to actual administrative, needs, and to criticize the establishment, particularly of recent years, which has caused ever-increasing loss to the taxpayers of the province.

WHAT AGENCIES MEAN

It is claimed by the committee that their suggestion was approved by Messrs. Hewitt and MacLachlan, the point of difference with my own reports already alluded to, but it must be remembered that they had the same point of view as the committee, in having no practical knowledge of the agencies throughout the province, and in looking on them as solely branches of the province. An article by myself in The Victoria Daily Times of August 25, on the Government Agencies of British Columbia, will give these interested some idea of what those agencies mean to the province.

It is not only the outlying communities who would be affected by any rash action on the committee's recommendation; every taxpayer in the province would be eventually, sadly and detrimentally affected. In my former capacities in the civil service as government agent, supervisor of assessors and agencies and inspector of revenue, assistant deputy Minister of Finance, and lastly, as departmental commissioner, I have had an experience of the government agencies to which no other official or individual may pretend, and I desire most earnestly to warn the people of the province that the foundation upon which any structure of administrative economy may be erected for the future is a soundly reorganized government agency system, and that any attempt at rash and improperly planned curtailment will open a door for vastly increased expenditure, which it will be almost impossible to close again short of bankruptcy itself.

TAX PENALTY HURTS FARMERS

Saanich Asked to Defer Date of Penalty; Legality Questioned

Many fruit growers of Saanich not having received expected remittances for fruit supplied to agencies and other marketing agencies, the co-operative associations yesterday evening appealed to the Saanich Council to delay for one month the date when the statutory penalty on tax bills will become effective. Cheques for fruit were stated to be expected before the end of October.

The application was received with sympathy, but no means could be found for legally making the concession. A letter from the municipal solicitors stated that, when the date was set by law, the matter finally passed out of council control. Taxes unpaid by October 10 will be liable to an addition of 5 per cent, a second addition of 5 per cent will be effective on October 21, and the full statutory impost of 15 per cent will be added to accounts unpaid on October 31.

The council was anxious to devise some legal method of assisting farmers, and instructed Reeve Croft, the clerk and the municipal bankers and solicitors to make further investigation into the question.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily and the School Bug

By HOWARD R. GARRIS

Uncle Wiggily was hopping along toward the Hollow Stump School with all his forty-seven rabbit children, when he saw a school bug who was a little boy. No, Uncle Wiggily wasn't going to recite his lessons to the Lady Mouse teacher. The rabbit gentleman was only going as far as the school yard gate to show the animal children and Bub the right path.

The reason for that was that when the bunny children were on their way to school they heard a bell ringing in different parts of the woods. They thought it was their school bell and they went first in one direction and then in another until they were lost.

Then Uncle Wiggily hopped along and he saw that it was Bub, the funny little boy like a rainbow in a soap bubble, who was skipping about, ringing the bell in different places to fool the rabbits.

At last Bub climbed up in a tree to ring the bell, and there Mr. Longears caught him and made him come to school with the bunnies.

"That was a funny trick for you to play on us, Bub," said Baby Bunt, as she hopped along beside the rainbow boy.

"I'm glad you liked it," laughed Bub.

"Where did you get the bell?" asked Buster.

"I took it off a cow," said the little boy, who could speak and understand rabbit talk.

"You did what?" almost shouted Uncle Wiggily, who was hearing about as much as the spelling lesson.

"You say you took the bell off a cow, Bub? What cow?"

"A cow I saw in the woods," answered the little boy. "She had a bell on her neck, so I took it off."

"Didn't the cow say anything?" asked Jingle, laughing at Bub.

"Oh, yes," he answered. "She said 'Moo' but I knew that meant 'yes,' so I took the bell. Anyhow the cow didn't say anything. She said it was nervous ringing all the while. Did you think it was the school bell?"

"For a time we did," answered Jingle. "But then we saw the school bell hanging on the cow's neck and we knew it was the school bell."

"Well, don't take any more bells off cows, Bub," warned Uncle Wiggily. "The bells are put on the necks of cows so the farmer can find them when they wander off in the woods. Here, give me the bell and I will leave it on this bush so if the cow comes this way she can find it again."

"I don't believe she'll want it," said Bub. "She said she didn't want the bell. She said she didn't want the bell. She said she didn't want the bell."

"Well, I am not expecting to come to school this morning," said Mr. Longears with a twinkle of his pink nose. "But I am here if I suppose I may as well hop in and help you sing the morning exercises."

"Please do," begged Miss Mouse. "After all, it's the little chap" she asked as she saw the small boy. For she knew all the rabbit children, as well as the kittens, dogs, ducks, mice, frogs and all other of the animals who had arrived soon after Mr. Longears and his family.

"This is Bub," said Uncle Wiggily, as he led forward his friend. "He has a twinkle of his pink nose. But he is here if I suppose I may as well hop in and help you sing the morning exercises."

"You may sit with Baby Bunt, my dear, and after a while I'll give you a regular seat," said Mr. Longears.

"Oh, I'd like to sit with Baby Bunt all the while," said Bub.

"Then you may," answered Miss Mouse. She was just going up on her platform to start the morning song, and Uncle Wiggily was ready to join in when, all of a sudden, a loud-buzzing sound was heard.

"Oh, here's a bumble bee!" cried Baby Bunt.

"No, that's the funny old School Bug," squeaked Miss Mouse. "He flies in the window and when he bites the pupils they get so sleepy they don't want to study or recite. Oh, how shall we get the School Bug out of the room?"

"I'll catch that School Bug!" shouted the small boy with the golden hair. "I'll catch him!" With that he ran to the Lady Mouse teacher's desk, picked up her ink bottle, took out the cork and then he chased the Bug around until he had caught him in the bottle.

The School Bug buzzed, but couldn't get out, everything was all right and after singing of the morning song school began.

All the pupils loved little Bub. And if the roller skate was stony jumping out of its crib at night to run around the block, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Bub's wagon.

ECLIPSE BLINDNESS
Calgary, Sept. 23.—Eight Calgary citizens have received medical attention for varying degrees of blindness as a result of watching the eclipse of the sun August 31 without the aid of darkened glasses. It was shown here that the sun's rays are so powerful that a woman is almost totally blind in one eye, while her other eye is slightly affected. Others suffered severe strain and were partially blind. Whether the affected persons will completely recover will not be known until treatment is further advanced. Practically all will be receiving attention for three or four months.

for LOVE or MONEY

"Aye, aye, sir."
"Here we go!"
The plane lifted and shot into the air. It spiraled upward. Port of Spain fell away from them into the azure waters. The plane headed north and presently they passed Trinidad. Other islands lay ahead, curving like a graceful garland of green leaves on the water. The Caribbean shimmered in the sun. They raced onward into the blue bowl of the sky.

Thirty minutes. Forty minutes. Fifty. Fifty-five. Bud turned to shout over his shoulder, "There's Holiday!"

The girls peered ahead. A tiny green speck was growing larger. It raced up to meet them, spreading on the sea like a green carpet. Could Bud possibly manoeuvre the plane to such a landing spot? It seemed like diving from a high pole into a tub of water.

Holiday waved and then approached, displaying a large white house, a group of huts, long stretches of beach silvered by the sun and fringed by palm trees. There was a turquoise bay held in the cup of green hills. A yacht shimmered and bobbed in the sunlight.

The plane crossed the harbor, dipped close to the trees and went steadily on toward a broad expanse of green.

"A golf course!" cried Lottie. "Yes, a golf course. These fellows believe in having all the comforts of home."

There was a drop, a soft bump and the plane landed, slowing until it came to a full stop. Bud clambered out, assisting the girls to their feet.

"Not bad!" he grinned. "There's the old flivver," indicating a car beneath the trees. "We'll drive to the house. It's not far but we can't land on the doorman so they leave the bus here for me."

They piled baggage into the rear seat. Lottie held Mona on her lap and Bud started the motor. The car moved slowly down the grassy road around a curve and through a grove of palm trees. Then the road swerved and brought up suddenly almost directly behind the house. Still there was no one in sight.

"Nearly breakfast time," Bud mused. "Breakfast!" exclaimed Lottie. "Lunch to you! The first meal of the day here is 'coffee' served on a tray at your bedside at eight o'clock sharp. 'Coffee' means coffee, fruit and toast. Breakfast is served about 11:30. It's too hot after that to do anything except rest. We have tea at 3:15 and dinner at 7:30. Yes, I guess the lady is probably at breakfast."

He brought the car to a halt and leaped out. The girls followed.

They mounted the steps leading to the veranda. It was a wide cool veranda with a fine view of the sea across the stretches of green and silver. Inside were huge rooms, high ceilings and a Spanish shawl tossed across it. There were easy chairs, lamps, tables glistening from recent polishing.

A high door led into the hallway from which a broad, uncarpeted stairway rose. The house was huge and hospitable.

"Hey, fellows!" Bud called. "Hey!" Two voices came in unison. "They're in the breakfast room," Bud whispered. "Don't say anything. We'll surprise 'em!"

"Are you hungry?" Barry shouted. "Come on in! How is everything?"

Glancing, the girls followed. Bud around the curve of the veranda. There was a table spread in the recess sheltered by cooling vines. Barry and Steve, in spotless white, lounged in easy chairs. Fink medals were set before them. A tiny maid glided around the table, pouring coffee. Another appeared in the doorway with a tray of meats, fish, vegetables and salad.

"Hurrah! All the comforts of Broadway!" cried Lottie. Mona stood still, quite still.

"I've brought you something pretty," announced Bud, just then, muttering something about "washing up" he turned and fled.

"Why, Lottie—Mona—" Steve rose, grinning, his brown hands held wide. "Mona!"

Radio Show Opens At Hudson's Bay

Fine Exhibition Presents Review Of Newest Ideas

Eight Manufacturers Show Array of Wonderful Radio Receivers

Hudson's Bay Company Holds Important Display All Next Week

The fourth annual radio exhibition of the Hudson's Bay Company, which opened to public inspection at 9 o'clock to-morrow morning, and is expected to exceed in interest all preceding efforts of the kind. The show with which the Hudson's Bay Company has introduced the newest ideas in radio have annually attracted great public attention, and this year arrangements are being made for a larger attendance than ever. The show will continue for one week, to conclude at 6 o'clock on Saturday, October 1.

Much of the spacious third floor of the store building has been set aside for the radio display, and the various receivers will be housed in quarters decorated with colored hangings and other attractive settings.

The radio department of the Victoria store of the Hudson's Bay Company was first organized in the early days of commercial radio, and then occupied a small section of the basement. Each year the department has expanded until to-day it is one of the most successful divisions of the big store.

Fifty handsome rock-crystal radio lamps will be distributed during the week, and these dainty devices, each with a delightfully executed dancing girl, are expected to attract much interest.

At least eight factories will contribute towards the success of the exhibition, each of these firms having arranged to be represented by a full range of their instruments. The products of each manufacturer will be grouped together, to enable visitors to view the entire range and compare merits of low priced sets and more advanced types of the same make.

The show will include examples of the full range of the instruments bearing the following famous names: Victor, Philco, DeForest-Crosley, Lyric, Rogers, Majestic, Stewart-Warner and Dictator. In addition to the regular sets operated from the city light and power lines, the exhibition will include a fine selection of receivers powered with the new 1,000-hour storage battery, for use in rural districts not served by power lines. These sets use the newest type of low consumption tubes and are notable for brilliancy of tone and freedom from trouble.

SKILLED WORKMEN
In this connection the Hudson's Bay Company offers a remarkable repair service. Its radio maintenance staff being composed of expert radio technicians with years of experience. Many of these experts in trouble-shooting have been in the industry since it became a commercial success, and hold such qualifications as membership in the Institute of Radio Engineers and in the Radio Service Men's Association of Canada, both of which are only acquired by successful passing of severe technical examinations.

In connection with its maintenance service the Hudson's Bay Company has installed the most modern tube-test machine, whereby radio owners may see for themselves whether their tubes are operating with efficiency. A full stock of replacement tubes of all types is carried, enabling all types of sets to be serviced without delay.

The show opening to-morrow has been especially arranged to enable the radio enthusiasts of Greater Victoria to familiarize themselves with the great improvements which have been made in sets during the last year. Persons now owning receivers are especially invited to view the display, where a large staff will explain the various points of progress without pressing for sales. For the many set owners who desire to acquire the ultra-modern receivers now on the market, special trade-in allowances will be in effect during the progress of the exhibition.

MULTIPLE SPEAKERS
Many of the new sets feature two speakers, and at least one instrument possesses three—dynamic units. The objective of the new design is to improve tone quality, and most successful results have been attained. The new system enables receivers to produce notes over a much wider musical range and at the same time avoids distortion due to overloading, as occasionally happens with a single unit. Another change of importance is the larger number of tubes generally incorporated. Again the objective has been to secure improved tone, this being attained by absence of overloading. Many of the sets on view incorporate eleven, twelve or even fourteen tubes, their power being limitless. Despite the increased number of tubes the power consumption of the new sets is no greater than that of last year's sets. In some instances the more numerous tubes actually use less power than the smaller sets popular last year.

PRICES LOWERED
One of the most important points to be noted at the exhibition will be the change in the price basis which has been effected. The de luxe leaders of the respective makers this year cost no more than was asked a year ago for the smaller instruments, while the cabinet radios now being offered in the lower price range cost as little or less than was last year paid for mantle receivers.

Among the leaders of the exhibition will be sets giving shortwave reception as well as the standard channels. These sets have been newly devised by the Stewart-Warner Corporation, and only one dial is used for all types of reception.

De Forest-Crosley, one of the pioneers in radio and always one of the leaders, this year shows sets incorporating eleven major developments. One of the splendid receivers of this line makes efficient use of fourteen tubes, two speakers being required to take care of the output of the newly-designed chassis.

The famous Victor line this year is headed by a combination of radio, phonograph and home recording apparatus. A turn of a switch sets the various sections in operation, and the excellence of the home recording device will be demonstrated frequently during the week of the show.

NEW DISTORTION CAUSE FOUND
Few who listen to a radio receiver, the tone of which is not as clear as it should be, realize that the receiver is probably giving out a lot of extra tones which falsely reinforce certain of the programme tones that are picked up at the broadcast station microphone.

Although the average radio listener may hardly believe it, the reinforcing tones, in many cases, come from the vibration of the walls of the cabinet itself.

GREAT STUDY PUT INTO PHILCO SETS

Instruments Result of Years of Scientific Research By Engineers

Great Improvements Made in New Dynamic Speakers in Sound Reproduction

The chief reason why Philco stands out as such a superb instrument lies in the fact Philco engineers have made a scientific study, over a period of years, of every factor having to do with tone. They have developed and co-ordinated designs of cabinets, baffles, loudspeakers, receivers and tubes, so that all components work together to give the best possible overall performance. The resultant natural full-toned reproduction gives a striking instance of the value and advantage of controlling the design and production of all components, as Philco does, compared with the usual custom of assembling chassis in a purchased cabinet.

The new electric dynamic speakers in the 1932 models of Philco are the most faithful sound reproducers designed. One reason why they reproduce sound with all the fidelity of a most delicate modulation, is because the cone, which really delivers the sound, is made of a lighter more flexible, more responsive material than has ever been used before, and is moulded in one piece, including the extra flexible rim. This cone floats freely, because there is no stiff rim or glued rim to restrain its responsive action. Also the double layer voice coil construction, originated by Philco, combines sturdiness with minimum weight in this important tone transmitting member. The complete cone, although mechanically strong, is extremely light in weight, so that it can be moved enough by weak signals to give a pleasing tone.

ADVANTAGE ENHANCED
This advance in reproduction is further enhanced in the famous Philco "X" models. In the development of these "X" models, the Philco laboratory has made a definite and valuable improvement in the reproduction of sound. This improvement is distinctly noted even by untrained ears. Not only is the general quality of tone more natural, more perfectly like the original broadcast, but the high notes and the low notes are reproducing such completeness that the full register of broadcast music is heard as never before on any radio.

Many details of engineering have been worked out to contribute to the remarkable sound reproduction of these models, and no one thing is the determining factor in this Philco, the radio scientifically designed throughout as a musical instrument of quality.

BIG ADVANCE IN VICTORS

Bi-acoustic Radio on View at Hudson's Bay Company Has Many Features

Extended Range, Automatic Tone Compensators, New Tubes Enhance Performance

The Victor bi-acoustic radio with its many advances in the radio field will be a feature at the Hudson's Bay Company radio show. The latest achievement has the advantages of "B" amplification, automatic tone compensators, tone equalizers, dual automatic volume control, twelve new-type tubes, new improved dynamic speaker and quick-eight tuning dials in many new beautifully designed cabinets.

"B" amplification gives a power for the thrill peaks without a loss through distortion and an extended musical range which brings in two more octaves. The automatic tone compensators take out any thinness, and the new tone equalizers remove the cabinet boom. With twelve new type tubes assuring great power with smooth performance, automatic volume control which completely eliminates any fading and the improved dynamic speaker which handles all frequencies at any volume Victor introduces in the bi-acoustic improved super-heterodyne radio one of the most radical radio developments since the advent of all electric set.

IMPROVEMENTS IN NEW SETS

Shadow Tuning, Silencer and Twin Speaker Incorporated in Philco

Technical Advancements Are Housed in Magnificent Cabinets

Many new and startling revolutionary improvements will be introduced to the visitors to the Hudson's Bay Company radio show in the new extended line of famous Philco radios. Among the many features of the Philco line are shadow tuning, twin speakers, new high efficiency tubes, echo-absorbing screen, tuning silencer, inclined sounding board, automatic control and four-point tone control. Impressive as this list of improvements is the radios themselves in performance and beauty are still more amazing.

SHADOW TUNING
Philco shadow tuning gives such correct tuning almost instantly that it is no longer necessary for the listener to keep log books and wave lengths. The shadow is controlled by the station power and when it comes down to its narrowest width, whether at the channel number or not, that is where the new automatic tuning speaker makes it possible to turn the dial over the entire scale without bringing in static, objectionable or aggravating noises.

TWIN SPEAKERS
Through exhaustive experiments and scientific tests by Philco radio engineers the principle of using twin speakers has been found to give an equally balanced tone with a roundness and perspective impossible with a single speaker.

NEW CROSLY SERIES SHOWN

Splendid Instruments Included Eleven Major Developments in Radio

Special Tuning Device Outstanding: Pentode Tubes Used Generally

The Empire series of new radios by De Forest-Crosley are presented at the Hudson's Bay Company radio show to-day. The new Empire series is comprised of many new handsome models supported by eleven major developments in the radio field.

Authentic automatic silencer on all A.C. models in Empire series gives complete silence between stations when tuning in, thus avoiding static. The Class B twin push amplification makes possible the reproduction of the vibrating top notes of a soprano and all extreme peaks of musical volume. The triple triode drivers gives the assurance of perfect tone performance by eliminating overloading. Twin pentodes for amplification are found in these sets also the R. F. and A. F. pentode tubes, 1922, in the circuit realize perfect control of full power in performance.

MATCHED DUAL SPEAKERS
Matched dual speakers assured by the scientific co-ordination and horizontal radiation of the speakers give balanced reception. An outstanding advance of radio engineering, automatic volume control is now a standard De Forest-Crosley feature. Visual-tuning indicator, a pilot light permitting stations to be tuned in without hearing them, for when the light fades to the minimum luminosity the station is indicated after which a turn of the volume control brings the set into tune. The color tone indicator shows color on the dial for selected tone, brilliant tone shows amber, grading to orange for a bright tone with a mellow tone a reddish blue glow appears followed by blue for the very softest tone. All channels used on this continent can be registered on the new Empire series cabinets are designed by Karl Otto, one of the leading designers in North America.

Water pressure in Saanich will be reduced from Tuesday midnight until about 6 a.m. on Thursday morning. Municipal officials have advised residents, particularly those in the higher districts of the waterworks area, to store a supply of water sufficient to last thirty hours or more. The reduction in pressure will be caused by adjustment of mains.

P. Babcock of the Provincial Fisheries Department.

REGAL BLOOMS IN BIG DAHLIA SHOWProfusion of Beautiful Blooms
at Victoria Society's ExhibitionFlowers on View in Showroom at Corner of View and Broad Streets

Dame Dahlia, regal queen of the late summer and autumn garden, reigned for a day when the fifth annual show of the Victoria Dahlia Society opened in the exhibition rooms at the corner of View and Broad Streets this afternoon. Gorgeous blooms in great profusion caught the eyes of flower fanciers as they thronged to the show where seedlings, originating in Victoria, as well as splendid specimens of stock varieties lent a wide sweep of color to the room.

Judging started shortly after 2 o'clock and adjudicators found great difficulty in determining winners in the twenty-three sections of the show. Outstanding were the beautiful non-competitive trade exhibits of Elder's Capitol Dahlias and Brown's Victoria Nursery.

In the former, Lady Moyra Ponsonby, a giant variety of vivid yellow, developed by the nurseryman in Victoria, held the place of honor in a tall basket flanked by other stately vase of blooms. The flowers, averaging ten inches across, with their perfect petal formation were the centre of attraction to those who gazed on the stall.

BRILLIANT HUES

Pompoms, brilliantly hued, pale cactus, arose in orchids and pink, vivid reds, golds, oranges and mauves as well as royal purple and maroon and white bi-colors were set off to advantage by tasteful arrangements. Among the varieties shown were Edna Ferns, Mrs. A. B. Spala, Miss Canada, a beautiful bronze-gold bloom of great size; Alex Craig, a newly developed pink, and many others.

Alex Craig were also featured in the display of Brown's Victoria Nursery, which included five big baskets of blooms. The pink and cream of the former cactus variety showed up well against the exhibits of brightly-colored Jane Cowie, Miss Canadas and rounded pompoms. Miniatures and the pink-overlaid-with-cream Eva Elston, were of particular attraction.

In the display was also shown the General Gordon, a wine-red bloom developed in Victoria, which took exceptionally high honors in one of the big English shows.

In another non-competitive display, Angus McKay showing late summer and autumn flowers, including delicately tinted gladioli, rich, golden chrysanthemums, Michaelmas daisies and many other types.

In the competitive lists, O. H. Kimball has entered some fine Alex Craig, Jane Cowie, show dahlias, including the warm golden, orange-edged Gold Medal as well as twenty different varieties of highly colored cactus.

Cactus types are also given prominence. Fine big blooms equally excellent in form and color are on view in the new cactus list, which deep red, golden, pink and mauve colors furnish fine foils for one another.

Decorative, hybrids, the ruby colored American Triumph and many other types. The show will continue to-morrow.

Kidd To Address
Victoria Meeting

George Kidd, chairman of the committee which recently submitted a report to the provincial government, will address members of the Chamber of Commerce on the subject of this report on Wednesday evening next, at 8 o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium.

The general public will be admitted to the meeting and in order to ensure a sufficient number will be set aside and held until 7:55 o'clock. Members will be admitted to the reserved section at the forward entrance to the auditorium on presentation of their membership cards.

In view of the importance of the subject of this address and the fact that this will probably be the only opportunity to hear Mr. Kidd in Victoria, it is hoped that all members will endeavor to attend this meeting," says R. H. B. Ker, president in a notice to members.

The first general meeting of the winter of the Junior Chamber of Commerce will be held in conjunction with a dinner at the Chamber of Commerce next Tuesday, at 6:15 p.m.

The function will be the form of an informal round table gathering and is intended to give all members an opportunity of advancing suggestions concerning the winter programme of activities.

Birthday Greetings

Are Extended

To-day To—

AL DAVIES
MRS. MARY HERD

Albert Davies, who was born in Durham, England, is proprietor of the Vancouver Island Hardwood Floor Company. As a small boy in California he possessed a remarkable treble voice which caused him to be known as the "Young Joe" and brought him in great demand as a singer. Moving to Canada with his family when still a boy, over twenty years ago, he won the singing contest for all-comers which Clifford Denham successfully staged at the Royal Victoria Theatre along the lines of a musical festival. The competition lasted a week. He was a slender anaemic-looking lad when his brother had decided to build him up physically by making a boxer of him. He won British Columbia championships from 105 pounds to feather-weights and also held the Pacific Northwest bantamweight title for two years. In addition he made his mark as a swimmer and soccer player. He is a member of the Rotary Club and the Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Mary Herd, an old-time resident of Victoria, is celebrating her birthday to-day. Mrs. Herd arrived in Victoria about 1882, when her husband, George W. Herd, died in May, 1882. After staying for two days at the Burnes American Hotel, she left on board the Western Slope for Yale, where she joined her husband. It was a number of years before Mrs. Herd came to Victoria again and this time she stayed and established her home here. Mrs. Herd lives at 1132 Johnson Street.

REPARATIONS COMMISSION

The Canadian Reparations Commission will arrive in Victoria to-morrow from Ottawa to hear claims of war victims.

The commission is composed of Hon. E. M. McDougall, K.C., Major H. S. Ralph and Dr. J. P. S. Cathcart, with J. G. Hely acting as secretary. Meetings will be held at the Empress Hotel for the hearing of claims.

WOULD SUSPEND
DRIVING LICENSE

Magistrate to Make Recommendation in Traffic Accident Case

Suspension of the driver's license of Robert Carlrow, 1318 Ivy Street, whose motorcycle was involved in an accident which sent nine-year-old Billy Hanson to hospital last Sunday, will yet pale the fine then imposed. George Jay, he announced this morning.

Carlrow, a young man, pleaded guilty to a charge of not having his machine equipped with a horn or warning bell and was fined $5. He was convicted earlier this month on a charge of driving to the common danger, having been seen to drive the machine without a license.

The magistrate, commenting on his intention to recommend suspension of the defendant's driving license, said it was a case where an irresponsible driver should have his privilege to drive taken away.

SAANICH WILL JOIN CAMPAIGN

Council Protests Cost of Gasoline; Will Protest to Ottawa

Declaring the price of gasoline to be too high, the Saanich council yesterday evening agreed to support Reeve S. Musallam of Maple Ridge in his campaign to induce the federal government to take action towards lowering prices. Reeve Musallam wrote that H. J. Barber, M.P., had taken the matter up at Ottawa, the member for Fraser Valley being of opinion that an increase in gasoline prices in British Columbia was "a great injustice."

Reeve Musallam suggested to Saanich that, if all British Columbia municipal bodies united in protesting gasoline prices, Premier Bennett might be induced to wipe out tariff benefits as he did in regard to window glass, when that product was unduly advanced in price.

Councillor Denis Hoare commented that the cost of manufacture and handling gasoline was not going up these days. Councillor W. B. Wood favored action to aid a campaign to attain lower prices and Reeve Crouch asserted "Saanich should give this effort all the support we possibly can."

PAIR FINED ON BETTING COUNT

Thomas A. Cresswell of Victoria was fined $100 and Hyman Yewdall of Winnipeg was fined $75 in the city police court this morning for being keepers of a common betting house at room 502, 1405 Douglas Street.

The pair were arrested in a raid by a detective squad yesterday afternoon on their room. Horse racing entry sheets, telegrams and a code sheet were among the articles seized.

W. A. Brethour entered a plea of guilty on behalf of the pair and asked for a light fine. Cresswell had been convicted of a similar offence in 1928 and was penalized with the heavier fine. Detective Inspector Jack McEldan and Detectives C. Cramer, W. Stark and J. Rogers participated in the raid. Cresswell informed the court they had been in the place only a week.

HEARS SPEAKERJohn T. Friary, Assistant
Supreme Secretary, Addresses Local Chapter

John T. Friary, Assistant Supreme Secretary of the Royal Arcanum, proved an entertaining and forceful speaker at the meeting of the local branch of the Royal Arcanum held yesterday evening at the Elks Clubhouse. Mr. Friary spoke with first-hand knowledge of the social and business side of the fraternal and protective organizations on this continent.

He outlined the benefits to members belonging to fraternal and protective organizations and their influence on the life of the community. Membership which placed responsibility on members and promoted fraternal spirit was a great advantage which formed many bonds of lifelong friendships, he said.

Brother Friary dealt with the many charitable undertakings in the east, where hospital associations of the order were extending free treatment and assistance to distressed members and endowed also many hospital beds.

The Supreme Council of the Royal Arcanum is at present to-day that even before with a monthly income for investment of many hundreds of thousands of dollars. The Victoria council received high praise from Brother Friary for its work and the splendid reception accorded him during his visit. The local council is one of the most active and respected councils in the Arcanum circles, he asserted.

Entering the service of the 'Royal Arcanum upon leaving school, Brother Friary has been thirty years with the order and has served in many capacities. He was the youngest member to ever become Grand Regent of Massachusetts and the only Regent to be elected for two terms. He has attended every Supreme Council session since 1910, which has necessitated traveling to many every part of the United States and Canada.

Brother Friary was introduced to the members by Grand Trustee Darrel Spence and welcomed by Regent Carl Siocker. Following the address he was given a great ovation by the membership, which was followed by entertainment and refreshments. The officers of the Victoria council are formulating plans for the winter season's social and business programmes.

Five Team Pro Hockey League Proposed For Prairie Provinces

THE SPORTS MIRROR

Pitchers Selected for First Three Games in World Series

Bush is Only Chicago Pitcher Feared by Manager McCarthy

Allen is Figured to Give Cubs More Trouble Than Anybody

Warneke and Allen Should Put Up Best Pitching Show of Series

Port Chicago, Bush and Hartnett are the three pitchers who will be the main attraction in the opening game of the world series to be played at the Yankee Stadium next Wednesday afternoon. For the second game the experience has picked the veteran Burt Hooten as the starting pitcher for Chicago and Vernon Gomez for the Yanks. The third game, which will be the opener at Chicago, will see Len Warneke, sensational rookie hurler for the Cubs, and Johnny Allen for the Yanks, so the critics say.

Beyond the first three games the experts do not venture, for the showing of a pitcher in an early game, combined with the fact that there is a travel date between the second and third games, may make it advisable for the managers to come back with a pitcher who is "on," rather than gamble with one of his untried artists.

If the above mentioned schedule is carried out, the Cubs will have two pitchers in the first two games, working against two men who are very talented but who have never pitched in an early game. Bush, it will be remembered, was the only Chicagoan able to beat the Philadelphia Athletics in the world series of 1929. He drew a 3 to 1 decision over the Athletics on October 11 in the third game of the series and the first at Philadelphia.

Manager McCarthy, boss of the Yanks, who was Bush's manager for five years during the period of his greatest achievement, is on record as saying that the Cub pitchers whom he knows, Bush is the only one to be especially feared. Bush, when right, can break his screw ball around the knees of batsmen and the Yanks are notoriously weak on that type of pitching. It is said that McCarthy, although a great admirer of Bush, thinks that while he has the ability to pitch, they are made to order for the Yankee sluggers.

Grimes in the second game is a good guess, but he is one of the greatest money battlers of all time. He has been in three world series during his career and this will be his third in three years. Two years ago he was defeated twice although he turned in five-hit performances on both occasions. Last year he was one of the heroes of the series with two victories, one of which, the famous "Lafayette" game, was a two-hitter. Grimes' batting weaknesses say he will be the toughest of all Yankee pitchers to beat. The Cubs figure that Warneke is the man to hold the Yanks out down, while his teammates take out a few runs off Allen.

Allen is a pitcher who likes the excitement of a close contest, and is reputed to be a mean sort of a chap who likes to rule his opponents with an occasional duster and a rapid fire of verbal abuse such as usually left to the catcher. This will not worry the Cubs, however, as they are pretty good at repartee and are not likely to become frenzied by Allen's verbal abuse, but that matter.

Lloyd Turner And "Duke" Keats Back New Major Group

Clubs Are Ready to Operate in Calgary, Edmonton, Saskatoon and Moose Jaw; Regina Is Only City Unable to Arrange Financial Backing; New League Plans to Challenge for Stanley Cup; Would Revive Pro Hockey on Prairies After Absence of Six Years

Calgary, Sept. 23.—Regina to-day held the key to a new prairie professional hockey league. Lloyd Turner, Calgary promoter, who is organizing the league along with Gordon "Duke" Keats, Edmonton, and representatives from Saskatoon, Moose Jaw and Regina, declared here yesterday evening Calgary would not enter a team unless it were a five-team circuit. Edmonton, Calgary, Moose Jaw and Saskatoon, he said, had completed financing and were signing players but the finance question in Regina was still unsettled.

Canadian Press
Making the original announcement from Edmonton, Keats said that Regina backers had not completed financing arrangements, but that the other points were ready for action. Organization of the league, if completed, will bring professional hockey back to Alberta and Saskatchewan after a lapse of six years and will bring to completion steps taken a year ago to revive the professional ice sport in the two provinces. Efforts last year met with failure because of inability to effect financing. The previous prairie professional league operated from 1924 to 1928 and died when the Saskatoon squad packed grips and refused to play a deciding game with the Calgary Tigers.

Promoters of the league are aiming at a legitimate loop and are hoping for a chance to tackle the eastern big time teams for the Stanley Cup. Whether these plans can be carried to fruition still is in doubt. Both Keats and Turner expect numerous players drifting in United States loops, but previously members of scattered Canadian teams, will be on the line-ups of the new western-league. Turner said he could not divulge who would play with the Calgary team until it was known definitely what Regina would be able to do in financing its outfit.

"The whole situation at present," said Turner, "hinges on Regina. A five-team league would be successful, but any smaller loop would run into difficulties. There is no use organizing the league unless a sound chance for success is offered."

Montreal, Sept. 23.—Frank Calder, president of the National Hockey League, declined to-day to comment on the proposed formation of a five-team western Canada professional hockey league as announced yesterday evening.

Regina, Sept. 23.—Professional hockey in Regina may return this season providing the necessary financial arrangements can be made. W. H. Heffernan has been working on the idea for some time, but as yet has been unable to induce anyone to take over the financial backing of the team.

He has, however, one or two prospects and may have something definite within the next day or so. Some of the men who financed the sport in years gone by have been approached, but could not be induced to put up the cash for a team this year.

CANADIANS IN GOLF VICTORY

Three of Dominion's Golfers Reach Semi-finals in Canadian Women's Open

Montreal, Sept. 23.—Hope for a Canadian victory soared at Kana-wah Golf Club yesterday as three of the Dominion's golfers marched into the semi-finals of the Canadian women's golf tournament. With them is one United States player.

To the astonishment of a large gallery, Margery Kirkham, Forest Hills, Montreal, eliminated Fritz Stifel, Wheeling, Va., contender. A few minutes later Mrs. Charles S. Eddie, Rosedale, Toronto, scored a sensational 3 and 2 victory over the highly regarded Buffalo contender, Peggy Wattles.

The advancing Canadians were joined by Doris Taylor, Kana-wah, who scored easily over her local rival, Lucille Rolland, Laval. The semi-final quartette was completed in the startling manner of the day's happenings when Bernice Wall, crack Oakton, Wis., player, defeated Mrs. Alex. Gold, Beaconsfield, England, 2 up. The English woman won the qualifying medal Monday.

Indian War Cry Now "Crooning"

St. Paul, Sept. 23.—The war cry of the Indians in the United States has been replaced by "crooning," and the closest semblance to war paint is the rouge used by Indian flappers. That was the picture of the modern Indian drawn yesterday by M. K. Sniffen of Philadelphia, secretary of the Indian Rights Association.

UPPER HOUSE TO BE REFORMED

Sydney, N.S.W., Sept. 22.—By a vote of fifty-three to twenty-five, the New South Wales Legislative Council yesterday gave second reading to the bill for the reform of the Upper House. The bill provides for a sixty-member chamber elected by the sitting members of both Houses of Parliament under proportional representation. The legislation is the outcome of the dispute between former Premier J. T. Lang and Governor Sir Philip Game over the former's proposed abolition of the Upper Chambers, which ended in an unsuccessful appeal to the Privy Council in London.

SCHOOL TEAMS UNRESTRICTED

Victoria Rugby Union Places No Bars on School Intermediate Entries

School teams in this year's intermediate rugby league will not be restricted to players individually under 160 pounds, as will club entries in that division. A decision to allow the schools to have teams with a total weight approximating 2,400 pounds was reached at the special meeting of the Victoria Rugby Union in the offices of Mason and Diespecker yesterday evening.

Victoria College, considered as a club, not as a school, will be forced to abide by the 160-pound ruling as far as any intermediate players are concerned. But the former intermediate champions may use any outsiders they choose to on their squad. The players need not necessarily be students.

Discussion on this matter of weight restriction featured the meeting at which the re-drafted constitution and by-laws of the Victoria Union were passed. Only one other amendment was made to the new book of rules. This change set a quorum for any meeting, at which amendments were to be made, or any other general meeting, at fifteen.

The machinery of the three divisions, senior "A," senior "B" and intermediate sections, was described at the meeting and a report governing the board of referees was heard.

The meeting was exceptionally well attended. Russell Ker, president, occupied the chair. The draw for the B team match with the Colwood players first named follows:
9.55 a.m.—J. N. Findlay and L. D. Rines vs. R. A. Sempie and J. B. Lambert.
9.50 a.m.—A. Dale Davis and J. H. Lee vs. F. C. Holden and W. Wilkie.
9.55 a.m.—R. Hocking and J. L. Studholme vs. S. G. Peete and A. Youngman.
9.40 a.m.—A. W. Millar and Dr. A. Webster vs. R. H. Crane and E. J. Diespecker.

10 a.m.—T. A. R. Dennison and T. Leeming vs. J. R. Hibbertson and Major J. H. Norman.
9.45 a.m.—B. B. Ciceri and R. H. Lyons vs. A. B. Gonnason and A. Craig Sr.
9.50 a.m.—F. J. Hall and H. Hewlett vs. Capt. W. E. Tapley and E. C. Birch-Jones.
10.05 a.m.—J. A. Craig and J. Land vs. J. S. McInnes and B. Harris.
10.10 a.m.—J. A. Gray and Dr. Garesche vs. A. V. King and A. Dowell.
10.15 a.m.—A. H. MacLachlan and J. A. Scott vs. R. R. Taylor and L. C. Lytton.

New York, Sept. 23.—According to tentative lists given out by Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis, both Chicago Cubs and New York Yankees will have twenty-three eligible players for the coming world series. A final list has not been issued yet.

Tentative lists follow:

Cubs—Guy Bush, Burlingame Grimes, Leroy Herrmann, Frank May, Pat Malone, Charlie Root, Robert Smith, Lyle Tinning and Lon Warneke, pitchers; Charles Hartnett, Ralston Henneley and J. W. Taylor, catchers; Elwood Edwards, manager; Charles Grimm, Stanley Hack, William Herman, William Jurgens and Mark Koenig, infielders; Hazen Cuyler, Frank Demaree, Marvin Oudat, John Moore and Riggs Stephenson, outfielders.

Indian War Cry Now "Crooning"

St. Paul, Sept. 23.—The war cry of the Indians in the United States has been replaced by "crooning," and the closest semblance to war paint is the rouge used by Indian flappers. That was the picture of the modern Indian drawn yesterday by M. K. Sniffen of Philadelphia, secretary of the Indian Rights Association.

Mrs. Sayward-Wilson And Marjorie Todd In City Golf Final

Former Defeats Mrs. Philbrick 5 and 3 in Semi-final Yesterday at Victoria Golf Club; Miss Todd Disposes of Mrs. Jackson, Last Year's Runner-up, 6 and 4; Mrs. Sayward-Wilson Is Defending Champion; Mrs. Paterson and Miss Fitz-Gibbon in Final of First Flight

Over the links of the Victoria Golf Club to-day Miss Marjorie Todd, Oak Bay, met Mrs. F. Sayward-Wilson, Colwood, for the women's city golf championship. Mrs. Sayward-Wilson was attempting to retain the crown she won over her home course last year. The final was over eighteen holes.

In the semi-finals yesterday Miss Todd, winner of the title two years ago, disposed of Mrs. Jackson, Uplands, 6 and 4, and Mrs. Sayward-Wilson turned back Mrs. Philbrick, Oak Bay, a former champion, 5 and 3.

In the final of the first flight Mrs. New Paterson, Oak Bay, opposed Miss Fitz-Gibbon, Colwood. The former defeated Mrs. Paterson, 6 and 4, while Miss Fitz-Gibbon accounted for Mrs. Howard, Oak Bay, 3 and 2.

TAKES EARLY LEAD
Miss Todd took an early lead in her match with Mrs. Jackson and held it. After playing the first nine holes, the Oak Bay girl, who won the medal honors last Monday, won the second with a four. Miss Todd then proceeded to take the next three holes to become 4 up. Mrs. Jackson rallied to win the sixth, while the seventh was halved. A par three at the eighth gave Miss Todd the hole and her 4 up lead again. The next hole was halved leaving Miss Todd 4 up at the end of the first nine. Miss Todd had a 39 for the first nine as against Mrs. Jackson's 43. Miss Todd continued to play brilliant golf winning the tenth with a par four and the eleventh with a birdie four to go 6 up with seven holes to play. The next hole was halved in five. Mrs. Jackson then rallied to keep in the running but Miss Todd took the next hole with a four to win 6 and 4.

After taking a three-hole lead at the halfway mark Mrs. Sayward-Wilson continued to play good golf to end the match on the fifteenth green. The defending champion won the first hole, while the second was halved. Mrs. Sayward-Wilson took the third to become 2 up but Mrs. Philbrick took the next two holes to square the match. Mrs. Sayward-Wilson extended and on reaching the ninth had secured a 3 up lead. The tenth, eleventh and twelfth holes were halved. A par at the short thirteenth won the hole for Mrs. Sayward-Wilson, increasing her lead to 4 up. The fourteenth was halved but Mrs. Sayward-Wilson took the fifteenth to end the match.

The cards for the two semi-final matches follow:

Miss Todd—545447433—39
Out—44444

PLANE IS LANDED ON CITY STREET

Aircraft Brought Down Near Wharf Because Pilot Did Not Want to Truck It

Wilmington, Cal., Sept. 23.—A monoplane with a 42-foot wing spread was landed safely in a city street sixty feet wide yesterday. It was not an emergency. The pilot, Capt. James B. Dickinson, merely wanted to get the plane on board ship without having to crate and truck it down from Santa Monica. So he landed in the street, with permission of city authorities, and taxied the plane down to the ship terminal to be hoisted aboard the liner Monterey, leaving to-morrow for Australia.

The plane is owned by Hal Roach, movie producer. From Australia it is scheduled to be flown on a tour of the Orient, Africa and Europe. Carrying Arthur W. Loew, theatre executive, and Joseph Rastal, New York.

Brooks and Kruse will be meeting in a local ring for a second time. In their last bout "Rocky" put up a good battle until thrown through the ropes in the fifth round. Brooks has been training every day for the bout and claims to be in the pink of condition. Donovan has wrestled here before, beating a number of good men. Kruskamp is a newcomer. Two local preliminary bouts have been arranged. The first will be between Jim McPherson and Lloyd Penland and the second between Al Gostiller and Al Gardner.

HAPPY TO BE 136 LBS.

Lost 38 lbs.—More to Follow

Most women would be alarmed if their weight showed 136 pounds. But not this one. You see she was 174 pounds, and she has found a way to take off that disfiguring overweight.

She writes: "Six months ago, when my weight was 174 pounds, I started to take Kruschen, and have gradually got down to 136 pounds—and am still going down. I have not altered my diet at all, and I only take a half-teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water every morning. I also find Kruschen very good for biliousness, from which I used to suffer a great deal. But it has completely left me now—in fact, I feel a different person, and have only to thank those wonderful Kruschen Salts."—(Mrs.) M.K.

Taken every morning, Kruschen effects a perfectly natural clearance of undigested food substances and all excessive watery waste matter. Unless this waste is regularly expelled, Nature will eventually store it up out of the way in the form of ugly fat.

One bottle is enough to prove to you that Kruschen will make you feel younger—spryer—more energetic—you'll enjoy life—every minute of it. (Adv.)

Human Interest Bond Move Is Commenced

Campaign to Secure Aid For Unemployed Launched at City Hall

Twenty Organizations Combine to Support Work-creating Plan

Preliminary organization in the citizens' unemployment aid move was completed yesterday evening at a meeting in the City Hall of representatives of twenty different organizations. A committee consisting of one delegate from each body was selected and James Parritt was elected chairman, with Hamilton Crisford as secretary.

Copies of the memorandum setting out the "Human Interest Bond" plan proposed by Mr. Crisford will be forwarded to all the organizations interested and a second meeting will then be called next week after all bodies have discussed the matter.

Following is a list of the delegates: Women's Canadian Club, Mrs. J. W. Gibson; Men's Canadian Club, H. E. Besley; Chamber of Commerce, James Parritt; I.O.O.F., Municipal Chapter, Mrs. Prior; St. Vincent and St. Paul's Society, Mrs. McManus; Business and Professional Women's Club, Miss Wigglesworth; Women's Workroom, Mrs. J. D. Patterson; Rotary Club, C. H. French; Social Service League, John Goldie; Women's Relief, Mrs. Crisford; Salvation Army, Major Pullerton; Central Exchange, Mrs. Hartley; Native Daughters, Miss Bell; Trades and Labor Council, Charles Chivers; Y.M.C.A., Frank Paulding.

ENTHUSIAST SHOWN

Approximately eighty people attended the meeting and displayed a good deal of enthusiasm in the proposal, which is intended to be a movement on the part of the citizens to aid those who are less fortunate than themselves by being out of employment.

Two main ideas for creating work were outlined, one being the "Human Interest Bond" plan of Mr. Crisford, and the other the "Man-a-block" employment scheme, proposed by Alderman P. R. Brown. The greatest support was accorded the bond scheme, by which citizens could contribute funds to provide work either for themselves or through the city relief fund.

WILL HAVE SAY

Mr. Crisford briefly addressed the gathering, explaining first that in the numerous appeals to aid made during the last few years there had been one inherent factor lacking, "this being the fact that the donors had no say in how their donations were to be disposed of. His idea was designed to make it possible for a person to allocate their money for what they wished.

An issue of "Human Interest Bonds" would be made by the city. Mr. Crisford suggested, in any denomination which might be decided. These would bear coupons, possibly in fifty-cent units, which could be used for the payment of work.

"Some people, of course, cannot create work around their homes, in which case they could deposit their bonds with the city relief fund, and in this event the bonds, through contributions of the provincial and federal governments, would become work certificates, which would be used for relief purposes," he said.

WOULD PROVIDE WORK

Since the present scale of relief pay is $3 a day, a $1 coupon would provide a day's work for one man under this arrangement.

It would also be possible for different groups of citizens requiring improvements in their district to subscribe for bonds.

ONE CREDIT MARK FOR COMMITTEE

"The greatest service done by the committee, in the opinion of this government, is its acknowledgment that the time has come for lessened public demand on all governments, so that the province may meet these emergent times the better, and gather the resources of its people for the long, hard struggle back to prosperity. Nothing, however, is to be gained by going at this task with a distorted picture of the present in mind, and vain regrets as to the past. It is a situation that must be faced by every citizen, as is being done for the most part, and with a right good will.

WOULD LESSEN TROUBLE

When the meeting was thrown open for general discussion several comments on the two ideas were made. Rev. A. J. O'Brien said in the "man-a-block" plan a chance to eliminate trouble for housewives from various men calling at all hours of the day to secure odd jobs. If one man was given a certain district to work in, this nuisance would be abolished, he said, and it would also serve to "prevent many youths from becoming downhearted and loafing about the streets in their efforts to secure jobs.

R. H. B. Ker, president of the Chamber of Commerce, saw the need of an efficient organizer and leader to conduct the "man-a-block" scheme. It had been tried in other cities and only succeeded where sufficient enthusiasm was shown by the citizens, he said.

After numerous expressions of opinion had been given, the committee consisting of delegates from each organization was formed. They held an organization meeting and endorsed the "Human Interest Bond" plan as the most feasible.

CHACO BATTLE REPORT

La Paz, Bolivia, Sept. 22 (Associated Press).—A bulletin to-day said Bolivian troops had captured positions at Fort Boqueron, strategic stronghold in the heart of the disputed Gran Chaco area, despite a strong bombardment by Paraguayan artillery. It said four Bolivians, including three officers, had been promoted to higher grades for "heroic acts on the battlefield." Two Paraguayan machine guns were reported captured by a small patrol.

Government Replies To Kidd Report

GOVERNMENT STATES POSITION

The government's statement as a preface to the appendix contains: "The government has no objection to any business man, no matter how worthy his intentions, could step into the various departments of the government without having had previous experience in the administration of government affairs, and in a few weeks survey the whole field and bring out the points which would be absolutely free from insuperable obstacles to the present details. The following comments are issued by the government with a view to correcting some inaccuracies in the report, as well as to provide the public with full facts which should be in their possession when reading the report.

"The government desires to thank the members of the committee for the work that they have done. The report shows an evident desire for economy in public expenditure, and with this desire the government is in hearty agreement. In some cases where the government does not agree with the report it is felt that, although a reduction in expenditure might be achieved, true economy would be sacrificed; while in some other cases the government believes that the object aimed at has been reached in better ways than those suggested.

DEFICITS NOT NEW

The accumulation of deficits mentioned in the report is no new discovery, as the budget speeches of some of the recent Ministers of Finance disclose. One quotation from the budget speech of Hon. J. W. Jones, delivered in 1932, clearly shows that governments have expressed a definite desire to reduce expenditures: "There has been too great a tendency to increase the public debt, and the other thing from the government, as though the government has unlimited resources. The government has no objection to the reduction of expenditures of those who have urged the initiation of new expenditures or the increasing of old ones. Paradoxically enough, the very people who ask the government to reduce expenditures are often the same people who cry loudest for economy in every branch of expenditure except that in which they are specially interested.

PUBLIC ASKED EXPENDITURES

"Government expenditures have very largely been made to satisfy the demands of the people. During the three months of January, February and March in one year the government was asked by the people to make public expenditures on roads, highways, bridges and other public works to the total in excess of $15,000,000. Needless to say, not a fraction of these requests could possibly be considered. It is also a fact that some of the organizations which took an active part in asking for the appointment of this committee endorsed many of these requests for further expenditures at the time they were advanced.

"It may be said that until the eve of the session of 1932, when a committee of the Vancouver Board of Trade and other bodies appeared before the members of the Legislature, no noticeable demand on the part of the public for economy had been made, but the government had already for three years been endeavoring to cut down all forms of ordinary expenditure, the better to meet a strictly emergent condition in regard to unemployment, with more than 70,000 men and women registered for relief in the province.

COST OF RELIEF NECESSARY

"Being responsible for the life and well being of every section of the people, the government cannot afford to stand aloof from the question of unemployment relief. As the committee points out, $12,000,000 was expended in relief of unemployment in the province in the last two years, and of this amount the province had to find $5,250,000. Unemployment relief is not a private business done not have to face, and lessened industrial staffs lead to the pressure of unemployment. It is a straight emergency that cannot be disregarded. People cannot be left to starve, either in the name of budget efficiency or for any reason whatsoever.

"As the committee also points out, the province needs to export 75 per cent of her primary production in lumber, minerals, fish and, to a lesser extent, in agriculture. Market extension, in the opinion of this government, is not only necessary for the recovery of British Columbia industries, but is the only permanent solution for unemployment.

NOT CURRING SCHOOLS

"There may be some ground for the idea that it would tend to economy and be advantageous in other ways if a definite age limit were fixed, beyond which young people of the province would not be provided with schooling entirely at public expense. This government, however, is not prepared to reduce the length of the school year, as recommended, the reply states in regard to the question of free schooling, under the Department of Education, is as stated:

DELAY ON TEACHERS' SALARIES

"The whole question of the financial relationship between municipal councils and school boards was laid before the provincial organization of the local bodies as early as May last. It is expected that committees of those bodies will consider this question, and it is hoped that some arrangement satisfactory to the bodies and the local councils will be arrived at. Until these bodies have considered the question, this government is not prepared to reject the recommendations made.

NORMAL SCHOOL AND U.B.C.

"It may be reasonable to expect that a student attending normal school should pay the same tuition as a student attending the University of British Columbia. The government has already given careful consideration to a system of scholarships (in connection with the University of British Columbia). As a matter of fact, the University of British Columbia last year in connection with the university and normal schools, and many data and much information have been collected.

BIGGEST SINKING FUNDS

"British Columbia has the largest sinking funds of any province in Canada. The sinking funds held by British Columbia are greater than those of the four provinces west of Quebec, combined, and British Columbia is the only province in Canada that is providing sinking funds to retire its total debt at maturity. Further, this province has $2,000,000 surplus in its sinking funds over necessary requirements. More than $50,000,000 of the debt will be retired by means of these sinking funds within the next ten years. No other province in Canada is so favorably situated in this regard.

WHEN NECESSARY, IS IN CONTEMPLATION, IT IS ALSO NOTED.

NOT CURRING SCHOOLS

"There may be some ground for the idea that it would tend to economy and be advantageous in other ways if a definite age limit were fixed, beyond which young people of the province would not be provided with schooling entirely at public expense. This government, however, is not prepared to reduce the length of the school year, as recommended, the reply states in regard to the question of free schooling, under the Department of Education, is as stated:

DELAY ON TEACHERS' SALARIES

"The whole question of the financial relationship between municipal councils and school boards was laid before the provincial organization of the local bodies as early as May last. It is expected that committees of those bodies will consider this question, and it is hoped that some arrangement satisfactory to the bodies and the local councils will be arrived at. Until these bodies have considered the question, this government is not prepared to reject the recommendations made.

DEFICITS NOT NEW

The accumulation of deficits mentioned in the report is no new discovery, as the budget speeches of some of the recent Ministers of Finance disclose. One quotation from the budget speech of Hon. J. W. Jones, delivered in 1932, clearly shows that governments have expressed a definite desire to reduce expenditures: "There has been too great a tendency to increase the public debt, and the other thing from the government, as though the government has unlimited resources. The government has no objection to the reduction of expenditures of those who have urged the initiation of new expenditures or the increasing of old ones. Paradoxically enough, the very people who ask the government to reduce expenditures are often the same people who cry loudest for economy in every branch of expenditure except that in which they are specially interested.

PUBLIC ASKED EXPENDITURES

"Government expenditures have very largely been made to satisfy the demands of the people. During the three months of January, February and March in one year the government was asked by the people to make public expenditures on roads, highways, bridges and other public works to the total in excess of $15,000,000. Needless to say, not a fraction of these requests could possibly be considered. It is also a fact that some of the organizations which took an active part in asking for the appointment of this committee endorsed many of these requests for further expenditures at the time they were advanced.

COST OF RELIEF NECESSARY

"Being responsible for the life and well being of every section of the people, the government cannot afford to stand aloof from the question of unemployment relief. As the committee points out, $12,000,000 was expended in relief of unemployment in the province in the last two years, and of this amount the province had to find $5,250,000. Unemployment relief is not a private business done not have to face, and lessened industrial staffs lead to the pressure of unemployment. It is a straight emergency that cannot be disregarded. People cannot be left to starve, either in the name of budget efficiency or for any reason whatsoever.

NOT CURRING SCHOOLS

Wheat Prices Bow Fractionally When Liverpool Is Down

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, Sept. 23.—Wheat prices bowed fractionally to-day to a general lack of interest and lower quotations at Liverpool. Hedging sales were not heavy and only a moderate export was reported. Prices at the close showed losses of 1/4 in each wheat future.
October closed at 50 1/2; November at 51 1/4; December at 52 1/4; and May at 57 1/4.
Improved prospects in the Argentine prompted the decline at Liverpool. Advances from the southern country indicated that it was quite small and considerable benefit to the new wheat crop which is now about two months away from cutting.
Offerings from Argentine were more liberal and the exports this week showed an increase of some 600,000 bushels to reach a total of more than 1,250,000 bushels.
The Australian movement also was greater with 2,500,000 bushels cleared. These shipments and the better crop news gave importers some encouragement and their buying lacked the aggressiveness of the week before.
The weather throughout the prairie provinces remains clear, but movement of new wheat was tapered off somewhat with more than a quarter of the deliverable crop in the elevators. Receipts in country elevators yesterday totaled only 3,401,000 bushels. Cash wheat and coarse grains were firm to slightly easier.

ADD TO STAFF OF HOSPITAL

Admitting Doctor to Be Named for Vancouver General Outdoor Dept.

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Sept. 23.—Appointment of a qualified medical doctor as admitting officer at the outdoor department of the Vancouver General Hospital was authorized by the board of directors of the institution at a meeting yesterday evening.
Considerable saving could be effected in the operation of the department, declared Dr. A. K. Haywood, general superintendent, who declared that unnecessary X-ray, physiotherapy and pharmacy work would be avoided if a permanent official were on hand to supervise.
At present all doctors in the department were young members of the profession, serving gratuitously, and they were pressed to the limit daily with new cases. It was reported that permanent official would be required to approve all applications for prescriptions and X-ray treatments. Dr. Haywood declared. It was recommended that two doctors should be required, they be appointed, but in no case would the total salary outlay exceed $200 monthly.

TORONTO STOCK LISTLESS TO DAY

Toronto, Sept. 23.—To-day's session on the Toronto Stock Exchange was a listless affair. Prices failed to move far in either direction. Total sales of approximately 10,000 were only half of Thursday's total.
Interlocked issues were almost at a standstill. International Nickel and C.P.R. were up 1/4, Brazilian Traction off 1/4, and Ford unchanged. Consolidated Smelters closed unchanged.
Oils were soft and all down 1/4 to 5/8.
Price changes in the balance of the list were mixed to irregularly higher. Dominion Bank gained one. Royal and Commercial lost two. Standard Paving was up a point and Loblaw A. Steel of Canada, Distillers, Power Corporation and Canadian Canners convertible up fractions.

College
Course
in Family Life

Dorothy Dix

Hopes
They Will Teach
PolitenessThree Cheers for the College That Is Instituting a Course of Family Relationship—For Family Life
Is the Highest of the Humanities, and a Course in Politeness Best Way of Succeeding in It

A PROMINENT college announces that it is going to establish a course for the study of Family Relationship. This should fill a long-felt want, for there is no other subject under the sun about which the great majority of people are so abysmally ignorant as they are about how to get along harmoniously with their own blood and kin and in-laws, nor is there any other one thing about which they are in such sore need of enlightenment as about how to make themselves really popular with those of their own household.

Strangely enough, this branch of the humanities has never been thought worthy of serious study. Our colleges have taught their eager-eyed young pupils the dead languages, but not how to speak the diplomatic word that averts strife in the home circle. They have been taught how to read the stars and calculate the eclipse of the moon, but not how to interpret the signs and portents on father's brow, or in mother's air that presages a storm and that makes it unsafe to ask for an allowance or the use of the car. They have been taught how to handle the most intricate chemical formulas, but not how to blend the antagonistic dispositions of a bride and bridegroom so that when brought together they will not make an explosion that will wreck a home.

Why the higher culture has not included a good working knowledge of how to deal with those with whom Fate has cast your lot, it is hard to say. Certainly no education could be more valuable to us than that which would teach us how to manage our husbands and wives and parents and children and make them like it; how to gumshoe around the angles in their temperaments and how to pour oil on the troubled domestic waters. Those of us who could do that would have a right to consider ourselves really accomplished and be qualified for our M.A. degrees, for we would be truly masters of arts.

The most important thing in the world to every one of us, from the highest to the lowest, is our family relationship. The plaudits of the multitude are as empty as sounding brass and tinkling cymbals to the man who must go home from a cheering mob to a fault-finding and nagging wife. Bushels of pearls and strings of diamonds do not compensate a wife for a husband who gives her everything but love and companionship.

No other sorrow can tear men's and women's hearts to tatters and bend their heads so deep in shame as can the children who bring disgrace upon them. The poorest child that is rocked to sleep in its mother's arms and that grows up in a home where there is love and tenderness is happier and more fortunate and has a better chance in life for success than have the children of millionaires who are turned over to hirelings to rear, whose only homes are boarding schools and camps, and who have a succession of stepfathers and stepmothers.

Of course, heretofore we have believed that a knowledge of how to deal with family relationships came by nature, just as Dogberry thought that a knowledge of reading and writing did. We have had the artless idea that every man and woman knew by instinct how to be good husbands and wives and parents and that all children honored their parents, and that it was no trick at all to establish a happy home.

Perhaps that is why we have never thought it worth while to devote any time and study to the domestic group who through neglect threaten to become as extinct as any of the prehistoric animals. So it is encouraging to learn that our higher institutions of learning are about to take this subject up in a large way and try to prepare their students for marriage as they would for any other profession that they elected to follow.

Just what the curriculum is to be has not been stated, but the most important thing that can be taught in the course of Family Relationship is just ordinary common politeness. If all the members of a family would treat each other with the courtesy and consideration that they show to every outsider on whom they wish to make a pleasant impression, there would be no domestic problem. It would solve itself, and the dove of peace would take up its perpetual roosting place on every roof tree.

It is a strange and unaccountable thing that we show our worst sides to those we love the most, and that we do everything possible to alienate from us those whose affection we desire above all others. It is only to our nearest and dearest that we say the things that stab like knives and that leave wounds that never heal.

Our whole happiness depends on our keeping our husbands and wives in love with us, admiring us, interested and entertained and yet it is for strangers that we save our good clothes, our witty stories, our listening expression, our efforts at being charming. We agonize over our children leaving us and yet we drive them from us by our criticisms, our restrictions and our petty tyrannies.

If every husband made as much effort to be as fascinating and agreeable to his wife as he does to the woman he takes in to dinner; if every wife liked her husband as she does the men she meets at a party; if parents tried as hard to "sell" themselves to their children as they do to other nice young people, and if children were as well behaved at home as they are abroad, there would be no divorces and no unhappy homes.

So I trust that whatever else they teach in the course of Family Relationship they will teach good manners and to treat those of your own household as well as you do strangers.

Flying Around Europe

V—SOUTHWARD INTO GERMANY After reaching Stockholm we look up an old friend of mine, Bertil Vinstrom, and he joyfully agrees to serve as our guide. Like most well-educated men in Sweden, he is able to speak English well, and we have no trouble on the score of language.

We have decided to make just one stop in Germany—at Munich—but on our way, we fly over Berlin, capital of the country.

Berlin is one of the world's large cities, with a population which is now more than 4,000,000. It is the home of the Reichstag, where men and women elected by popular vote gather to make laws.

Soon we are passing over Thuringia, one of the states of the German republic. This state is widely known as the home of "helpers of Santa Claus." German toys are famous, and some of the best of them are made in Thuringia.

We zoom southward, and over Bavaria. This is a section of Germany which I always enjoy visiting. The people seem to be brimming over with good will and friendliness. During all the suffering through which they have passed as a result of the World War, the folk of Bavaria have not lost their kindly human touch.

We land at an airport of Munich, largest city in Bavaria, and soon we are strolling through the streets. Most of the people are dressed in clothes which we might call "ordinary" or "usual," but some wear the gay folk costumes of Bavarian peasants. After a time, we gather courage to ask a man and a woman to pause while we take their picture. They smilingly agree, then rather seriously pose while we snap the shutter.
